Handbook of Fish Biology and Fisheries Paul J. B. Hart, John D. Reynolds, 2008-04-15 Recent decades have witnessed strong declines in fish stocks around the globe amid growing concerns about the impact of fisheries on marine and freshwater biodiversity Fisheries biologists and managers are therefore increasingly asking about aspects of ecology behaviour evolution and biodiversity that were traditionally studied by people working in very separate fields This has highlighted the need to work more closely together in order to help ensure future success both in management and conservation. The Handbook of Fish Biology and Fisheries has been written by an international team of scientists and practitioners to provide an overview of the biology of freshwater and marine fish species together with the science that supports fisheries management and conservation. This volume subtitled Fish Biology reviews a broad variety of topics from evolutionary relationships and global biogeography to physiology, recruitment, life histories, genetics, foraging behaviour, reproductive behaviour and community ecology. The second volume subtitled Fisheries uses much of this information in a wide ranging review of fisheries biology including methods of capture, marketing, economics, stock assessment, forecasting, ecosystem impacts and conservation. Together these books present the state of the art in our understanding of fish biology and fisheries and will serve as valuable references for undergraduates and graduates looking for a comprehensive source on a wide variety of topics in fisheries science. They will also be useful to researchers who need up to date reviews of topics that impinge on their fields and decision makers who need to appreciate the scientific background for management and conservation of aquatic ecosystems. Processes, Mechanisms and Solutions in Coastal Wetland to Adapt to Changing Environment Qing Wang, Dongdong Shao, Yu Zhang, Qin Zhu, 2025-06-05 Coastal wetlands provide precious ecological services for us like coastal protection carbon storage flooding mitigation production and so on Mangrove saltmarsh sea grass oyster reef and coral reef are typical types of coastal wetland each type has its unique adaptive strategy to climate change through some processes and mechanisms Some of them are well known to us but most are unrecognized as they are far away from our living environment Furthermore in the context of climate change and anthropogenic influence the external disturbance is more complicated and changeable causing the responses of species and the related processes more secluded and unpredictable Therefore the multilevel processes or mechanisms in coastal wetland to adapt to climate change as well as the solutions is urgent and important to face the new challenges Coastal wetlands lie in the transition zone between lands and seas defending us from storms and floodings and providing important and valuable ecosystem services such as carbon stock and biodiversity maintenance However coastal wetlands are vulnerable and are one of the most physically disturbed ecosystems on earth because they are always in hydrodynamic conditions under the interactions among tides waves runoffs and so on Furthermore the combined impacts of climate change and human activities have caused more uncertainties and complexities on the environmental factors which imposed unparalleled impacts on the diversity distribution and ecological performance of coastal wetland ecosystem globally
