CHAPTER 10

- 10-1. Internationalization strategies: How can professional services be a viable internationalization strategy? What are the pros and cons?
- Professional services firms are engaged in a variety of internationalization strategies. "Traditional" professional services firms are engaged in what are referred to as "high water" internationalization, and "highly engaged" services firms are engaged in "low water" internationalization.
- Thomas H. Dierkes, President and CEO of Deloitte
- 10-2. Heavy Internationalization Strategy: What's the difference between heavy and non-heavy internationalization? What are the pros and cons of heavy internationalization?
- Heavy internationalization is a strategy in which a firm has a significant presence in the international market. This is often achieved through a combination of organic growth, acquisitions, and joint ventures. Heavy internationalization can provide a firm with a significant competitive advantage, but it also carries a high risk of failure. Non-heavy internationalization, on the other hand, is a strategy in which a firm has a limited presence in the international market. This is often achieved through a combination of organic growth, acquisitions, and joint ventures. Non-heavy internationalization can provide a firm with a significant competitive advantage, but it also carries a high risk of failure.
- 10-3. Internationalization and Entrepreneurship: What's the difference between internationalization and entrepreneurship? What are the pros and cons of internationalization?
- Internationalization is a process in which a firm expands its operations into foreign markets. Entrepreneurship is a process in which a firm creates a new business. Internationalization and entrepreneurship are closely related, but they are not the same. Internationalization can be a part of entrepreneurship, but it can also be a part of a firm's existing operations. Entrepreneurship can be a part of internationalization, but it can also be a part of a firm's existing operations.
- 10-4. Heavy and Non-heavy Internationalization: What's the difference between heavy and non-heavy internationalization? What are the pros and cons of heavy internationalization?
