

WILL RESTRUCTURING OF MSCE EXAMS COMPROMISE QUALITY OF EDUCATION IN MALAWI?

Yes... students will fail to retain what they learn in class

No... quality of education is not a function of national exams only

By Mwa Nkhosho

Commentary on education that is not based on facts is not only misleading but also dangerous. This is because it can lead to a distorted view of the education system and its challenges.

During the last few years, there has been a lot of talk about the restructuring of the Malawi Secondary Certificate Examinations (MSCE). This has led to a lot of speculation and controversy.

Some people have argued that the restructuring will lead to a decline in the quality of education. Others have argued that it will lead to an improvement in the quality of education.

It is important to note that the restructuring of the MSCE is not a new phenomenon. It has been going on for many years. The only difference is that the restructuring is now being done on a much larger scale.

One of the main reasons for the restructuring is the need to make the exams more relevant to the needs of the country. This is because the current exams are based on a curriculum that is out of date.

Another reason for the restructuring is the need to make the exams more challenging. This is because the current exams are too easy and do not test the students' knowledge and skills properly.

It is important to note that the restructuring of the MSCE is not a one-time exercise. It is a continuous process that will involve many more changes in the future.

GROUP OF STUDENTS: Students' assessment through examinations is an important exercise

It is important to note that the restructuring of the MSCE is not a one-time exercise. It is a continuous process that will involve many more changes in the future.

Commentary

The restructuring of the MSCE is a complex task that requires a lot of planning and coordination. It is important to ensure that the restructuring is done in a way that does not compromise the quality of education.

One of the main challenges of the restructuring is the need to make the exams more relevant to the needs of the country. This is because the current exams are based on a curriculum that is out of date.

Another challenge of the restructuring is the need to make the exams more challenging. This is because the current exams are too easy and do not test the students' knowledge and skills properly.
