BOOK THREE

JESSICA BACKMAN'S DEATH IN THE AFTERLIFE

Sometimes, the dead are best left in peace.

Jessica Backman has been called to help a strange family living on a haunted island in Charleston Harbor. Ormsby Island was the site of a brutal massacre two decades ago, and now the mysterious Harper family needs someone to exorcise the ghosts that still call it home. The phantoms of over one hundred children cannot rest.

But something far more insidious is living on the island. When the living and the dead guard their true intentions, how can Jessica discover just what sort of evil lurks on Ormsby Island? And why is Jessica the only one who can plumb its dark depths?

The Haunted Island: A Pirate Romance E. H. Visiak, On Christmas Eve 1668 I Francis Clayton was with my brother Dick at Clayton Manor our father s house Tis seated on the bottom of a Bay near Wembury on the sea coast of Devon My brother served in quality of lieutenant on board His Majesty s ship Tiger and was but late returned from a cruise off the Island of Jamaica His ship lay at anchor in the bay We sat over against one another on the hearth in my little snug room The Squire and the servants were a bed The great old house slept with starting and creaking of the timbers The fire was sunk together burning with a clear glow the candles were wasted to the snuff in their sockets My brother told a marvellous tale of the South Sea of an island there haunted by spirits particularly by a monstrous great ghoul or devil Many rumours said he are gotten abroad of this enchanted island Tis said that he who laid up the treasure had a truck with the devil and that a frightful fiend hath guard over it I do certainly know tis there As to the rest I am nothing concerned with such fantastic gear Once ashore there said he and not all the devils in hell shall keep me from the treasure Yet if seamen who have seen the Thing be not extremely out tis a pretty wight The head of it say they reaches unto the clouds and the appearance of it is frightful out of all description There came a sudden tap tapping in the wainscoting It was no doubt but a rat but I must confess I shrank with fear of it whereupon my brother clapped me boisterously on the shoulder crying Hallo my land captain Did you think it was the ghosts from the Haunted Island I ll show you something to cheer you up Hereupon clapping hand to pocket he plucked forth a little box or casket It was of gold very cunningly wrought with the representation of a galleon and her hull was of rubies her sails of pearls her flag and flowing pendants of emeralds and sapphires and the sea of amethyst It was exquisite and I said so but my brother bade me read what was written on a piece of parchment that he took from the box and laid open before me I know you like poesy said he read it Tis better than a sonnet to my lady s shoe latchet

Tongan Place Names Edward Winslow Gifford, 1923 The Women on the Island Ho Ahn Thai, 2012-05-15 Deep in the forested Vietnamese island of Cat Bac a jungle seethes with the irrepressible force of its own history Haunted by agonies of temptation and frustration the women on the island are prisoners of the power of the place the power of the past the power of desire and constraint Yet like the jungle of jackfruit trees and bamboo itself desire is a force that cannot be subdued This novel illuminates the plight of a generation of men and women in post war Vietnam It explores issues of family and gender and charts Vietnam s effort to redefine its relationship to its past and future Popular writer Ho Anh Thai brings into view the struggle of women who survived their service during the war years Like male veterans in America and Vietnam

they returned to a society which they had defended but which in many ways had no place for them By confronting these issues Ho Anh Thai has contributed to the debate in Vietnam over the rights of unmarried women with children Through the lens of this particular time and place The Women on the Island probes the timeless question of how we find ways to live in harmony with the tangled and contradictory compulsions of our own souls The Lost Island of Raj Saurabh Kumbhar
