2. How many genetically different gametes can be produced from a diploid cell with four chromosomes pairs? Describe your answer.

There are 16 genetically different gametes that can be produced because in a diploid cell there are four chromosome pairs. Each pair can contribute one or two chromosomes to the gametes, resulting in 16 genetically different gametes.

3. Although your offspring is a combination of both of your genes, you recognize that some traits come from one independent chromosome. For example, both of your eyes are blue, but your nose is red. How are these two traits inherited together?

These traits are inherited together and travel on the same chromosome. This means that the two genes are physically close to each other on the same chromosome and are inherited together. This is why the two traits are inherited together.

4. Describe the alignment of chromosomes during prophase I, write the equations:

Chromosomes I and II are aligned and chromosomes III and IV are aligned. This is a bivalent because it consists of two chromosomes and two sister chromatids.
