

Hardy – Weinberg Practice Problems

AP Biology

Book Problems: pg. 462 (Chapter 23) - #2, 3

Study Guide Problems: pg. 181 (Chapter 23) - # 3, 4, 5, 11, 12 (tough)

Additional Practice Problems:

1. If 9% of an African population is born with a severe form of sickle-cell anemia (ss), what percentage of the population will be more resistant to malaria because they are heterozygous (Ss) for the sickle-cell gene?
2. In a population that meets the Hardy Weinberg equilibrium assumptions, 81% of the individuals are homozygous recessive for a gene. What percentage of the individuals would be expected to be heterozygous for this gene in the next generation?
3. You have sampled a population in which you know that the percentage of the homozygous recessive genotype (aa) is 36%. Using that 36%, calculate the following:
 - A. The frequency of the "aa" genotype.
 - B. The frequency of the "a" allele.
 - C. The frequency of the "A" allele.
 - D. The frequencies of the genotypes "AA" and "Aa."
 - E. The frequencies of the two possible phenotypes if "A" is completely dominant over "a."
4. There are 100 students in a class. Ninety-six did well in the course whereas four blew it totally and received a grade of F. Sorry. In the highly unlikely event that these traits are genetic rather than environmental, if these traits involve dominant and recessive alleles, and if the four (4%) represent the frequency of the homozygous recessive condition, please calculate the following:
 - A. The frequency of the recessive allele.
 - B. The frequency of the dominant allele.
 - C. The frequency of heterozygous individuals.
5. Within a population of butterflies, the color brown (B) is dominant over the color white (b). And, 40% of all butterflies are white. Given this simple information, calculate the following:
 - A. The percentage of butterflies in the population that are heterozygous.
 - B. The frequency of homozygous dominant individuals.
6. A rather large population of beetles have 396 red-sided individuals and 557 tan-sided individuals. Assume that red is totally recessive. Please calculate the following:
 - A. The allele frequencies of each allele.
 - B. The expected genotype frequencies.
 - C. The number of heterozygous individuals that you would predict to be in this population.
 - D. The expected phenotype frequencies.
 - E. Conditions happen to be really good this year for breeding and next year there are 1,245 beetles. Assuming that all of the Hardy-Weinberg conditions are met, how many of these would you expect to be red-sided and how many tan-sided?
