Location of International Business Activities Academy of International Business .,2014-12-02 In recent years an extensive range of new research has been revisiting the topic of the location of international business activities from a variety of different perspectives and background interests This work has been inspired in part by two apparently quite different but actually related contemporary trends on the one hand an emergence or revitalization of clusters of activities co located in or around selected global city regions or fast growing metropolitan areas and on the other hand an increased global dispersion of activities conducted within the value chains managed or coordinated by many large multinational enterprises and their business partners The former trend has given rise to discussions of how the elite of the cultural cognitive economy of the 21st century in Allen Scott s terminology or the creative class Richard Florida s term are now being drawn or brought back to major urban centers while the latter trend is associated with debates over outsourcing and the economic and social consequences of shifts in the ownership and location of distinct nodes of value chains once production systems become more fragmented and the component parts of such systems become more geographically dispersed An increased interest in the subject of international business location has been shown by scholars in Strategic Management in Economic Geography and in Regional Science as well as in our own interdisciplinary field of International Business Studies However as is often the case in academic research communities these bodies of scholarship have tended to develop at something of a distance from one another each conversing internally more than they have with one another Location of International Business Activities aims to promote a greater conversation between those interested in the topic of Location from various different backgrounds or starting points The articles are taken from a special issue on the theme of the Multinational in Geographic Space which was published by The Journal of International Business Studies in 2013

Kent Baker (ed.), Leigh A. Riddick, 2013 Understanding the current state of affairs and tools available in the study of international finance is increasingly important as few areas in finance can be divorced completely from international issues International Finance reflects the new diversity of interest in international finance by bringing together a set of chapters that summarizes and synthesizes developments to date in the many and varied areas that are now viewed as having international content The book attempts to differentiate between what is known what is believed and what is still being debated about international finance The survey nature of this book involves tradeoffs that inevitably had to be made in the process given the vast footprint that constitutes international finance No single book can cover everything This book however tries to maintain a balance between the micro and macro aspects of international finance Although each chapter is self contained the chapters form a logical whole that follows a logical sequence The book is organized into five broad categories of interest 1 exchange rates and risk management 2 international financial markets and institutions 3 international investing 4 international financial management and 5 special topics The chapters cover market integration financial crisis and the links between financial markets and development in some detail as they relate to these areas In each instance the contributors to this book discuss developments in the field to date and explain the importance of each area to finance as a field of study Consequently the strategic focus of the book is both broad and narrow depending on the reader s needs The entire book provides a broad picture of the current state of international finance but a reader with more focused interests will find individual chapters illuminating on specific topics Research
