Question	Answer
What is the main purpose of the study?	The study aims to investigate the relationship between the independent variable (X) and the dependent variable (Y).
What is the independent variable (X)?	The independent variable (X) is the variable that is manipulated or controlled by the researcher.
What is the dependent variable (Y)?	The dependent variable (Y) is the variable that is measured or observed in the study.
What is the research hypothesis?	The research hypothesis is a statement that predicts the outcome of the study, based on the relationship between X and Y.
What is the null hypothesis?	The null hypothesis is a statement that predicts no relationship between X and Y.
What is the significance level?	The significance level is the probability of rejecting the null hypothesis when it is actually true (Type I error).
What is the power of the study?	The power of the study is the probability of rejecting the null hypothesis when it is actually false (Type II error).
What is the effect size?	The effect size is the magnitude of the relationship between X and Y.
What is the confidence interval?	The confidence interval is a range of values that is likely to contain the true population parameter.
What is the p-value?	The p-value is the probability of obtaining a test statistic as extreme as the one observed, assuming the null hypothesis is true.
What is the t-test?	The t-test is a statistical test used to compare the means of two groups.
What is the ANOVA?	ANOVA (Analysis of Variance) is a statistical test used to compare the means of three or more groups.
What is the regression analysis?	Regression analysis is a statistical method used to model the relationship between a dependent variable and one or more independent variables.
What is the correlation coefficient?	The correlation coefficient is a measure of the strength and direction of the relationship between two variables.
What is the chi-square test?	The chi-square test is a statistical test used to compare the observed frequencies of categorical variables with the expected frequencies.
What is the Fisher's exact test?	Fisher's exact test is a statistical test used to compare the proportions of two categorical variables.
What is the McNemar test?	The McNemar test is a statistical test used to compare the proportions of two categorical variables in a matched-pairs design.
What is the kappa statistic?	The kappa statistic is a measure of the agreement between two raters or observers.
What is the Cohen's kappa?	Cohen's kappa is a measure of the agreement between two raters or observers, taking into account the possibility of chance agreement.
What is the weighted kappa?	The weighted kappa is a measure of the agreement between two raters or observers, taking into account the magnitude of the disagreements.
What is the Fleiss' kappa?	Fleiss' kappa is a measure of the agreement between multiple raters or observers.
What is the weighted Fleiss' kappa?	The weighted Fleiss' kappa is a measure of the agreement between multiple raters or observers, taking into account the magnitude of the disagreements.
What is the intraclass correlation coefficient (ICC)?	The ICC is a measure of the reliability of a measurement, based on the agreement between multiple raters or observers.
What is the kappa statistic for multiple raters?	The kappa statistic for multiple raters is a measure of the agreement between multiple raters or observers.
What is the weighted kappa for multiple raters?	The weighted kappa for multiple raters is a measure of the agreement between multiple raters or observers, taking into account the magnitude of the disagreements.
What is the Fleiss' kappa for multiple raters?	Fleiss' kappa for multiple raters is a measure of the agreement between multiple raters or observers.
What is the weighted Fleiss' kappa for multiple raters?	The weighted Fleiss' kappa for multiple raters is a measure of the agreement between multiple raters or observers, taking into account the magnitude of the disagreements.
What is the ICC for multiple raters?	The ICC for multiple raters is a measure of the reliability of a measurement, based on the agreement between multiple raters or observers.
What is the kappa statistic for multiple raters with weights?	The kappa statistic for multiple raters with weights is a measure of the agreement between multiple raters or observers, taking into account the magnitude of the disagreements.
What is the weighted kappa for multiple raters with weights?	The weighted kappa for multiple raters with weights is a measure of the agreement between multiple raters or observers, taking into account the magnitude of the disagreements.
What is the Fleiss' kappa for multiple raters with weights?	Fleiss' kappa for multiple raters with weights is a measure of the agreement between multiple raters or observers, taking into account the magnitude of the disagreements.
