This extract focuses on the reasons for Lenin's New Economic Policy.

In March 1921 Lenin announced the end of War Communism and the inauguration of a New Economic Policy. The NEP was based on the following:

Requisitions from peasants were ended and a fixed tax in kind (grain) was substituted – which by 1924 had become a money tax. Once this tax was paid, the peasant was free to do what he liked with what remained. He could use it himself, sell it to the state or sell it on the open market which was now made legal. Private enterprise was allowed in trade and small-scale industry. Compulsory labour ceased; labour armies were stopped; bonuses were introduced for extra work. The currency was back on a sound footing and a regular system of taxation was introduced. Large-scale industry (coal, iron, steel, oil, electricity, railways) remained state-owned.

1.3 Refer to Source C.

1.3.1 Explain in your own words how Lenin's New Economic Policy was implemented.

(3)

The New Economic Policy was a drastic adaptation to the war communist policy, which allowed for a free market, private trade and enterprise. Private trade was no longer illegal, or government centralised. People paid a portion of their goods or income in the form of tax and were permitted to sell the rest on the open market. This stimulated the economy and encouraged economic growth.

1.3.2 In what ways was the New Economic Policy different to Lenin's ideal of a communist state? Support your answer with evidence from the source.

A communist state is one in which all individuals are equal. Under the NEP certain individuals profited more than others, which is a distinctly capitalist feature. This automatically created a sense of inequality and reduced the government's power and influence.

1.3.3 What was Lenin's intention for the state in creating the New Economic Policy?

It was Lenin's intention to recover the economy and to suppress peasant unrest, while still providing for the needs of the government.

Child Sexual Abuse Reported by Adult Survivors Sinéad Ring,Kate Gleeson,Kim Stevenson,2022-04-28 Child Sexual Abuse Reported by Adult Survivors is a wide ranging and timely critical history and analysis of legal responses to historical or non recent child sexual abuse NRCSA in England and Wales Ireland and Australia each of which represents an evolving and progressive approach to this important and complex issue The book examines the emergence of NRCSA as a distinctive social political and legal phenomenon in each country and explores the legal responses developed to address its unprecedented challenges Courts and parliaments in each country have reformed existing doctrine and practice and have created new ways of holding state and private actors accountable and new ways of addressing survivors injuries Criminal law tort law public inquiries and state reparations have all been to the forefront of these new legal responses which have transformed law s engagement with NRCSA survivors and understandings of justice itself However despite this undeniable progress the book identifies ways in which the legal responses developed in each country fail to deliver accountability and recognition to NRCSA survivors and argues that such failures betray the law s inherent ambivalence to delivering justice for these survivors Creating new insights into legal responses to this complex contemporary legal social and political problem this book will be of great interest to academic lawyers political scientists and historians as well as those working on related topics in criminology sociology social policy cultural studies and gender studies

Psycho-social Explorations of Trauma, Exclusion and Violence Christopher Scanlon, John Adlam, 2022-01-06 The central theme of this book is the operation of intersecting discourses of power privilege and positioning as they are revealed in fraught encounters between in groups and out groups in our deeply fractured world The authors offer a unique perspective on inter group dynamics and structural violence at local societal cultural and global levels dissecting processes of toxic othering and psychosocial re traumatisation The book offers the Diogenes Paradigm as a unique conceptual tool with which to analyse the ways in which those of us who come to be located outside or on the margins of dominant social structures are in one way or another the inheritors of the legacies of centuries of oppression and exclusion This analysis offers a distinctive psycho social redefinition of trauma that foregrounds the relationship between the inhospitable environments we generate and the experiences of unhousedness that we thereby perpetuate Written in an engaging and accessible style Psycho social Explorations of Trauma Exclusion and Violence directly addresses pressing global issues of racial trauma human mobility and climate disaster and offers a manifesto for the creative re imagining of the places and spaces in which conversations about restructuring and reparation can become sustainable This is an essential and compelling book for anyone committed to social justice especially for all practitioners working in health social care and community justice settings and researchers and academics across the behavioural and social sciences

Ząbkowicz, 2023-04-28 The State and Groups of Influence in the Economy The institutional political perspective The book dwells on views and cognitive apparatus worked out in this strand of social thought where collective action and particular groups interests carry weight It claims that such theorizing leads to the substance of economic activities in our surroundings more certainly than methodological individualism does In most compact way the contents of this book can be characterized by referring to a couple of research perspectives and the scope of its theoretical background can be marked by several great researchers names Firstly deeper understanding of economic performance as Douglas C North and his followers argue requires consideration of economic activities as well as polity where property rights and incentives structure are determined Secondly public and economic policies can not be regarded to be exclusively government s domain being to some extent the outcome of activities of organized interests and group interest representations As Wolfgang Streeck put it capitalism is under renegotiation The contemporary democratic polity sees representations of labour interests non governmental organizations etc However as John K Galbraith points out in some of his works the axis of renegotiation in capitalism has been constituted by relations between contemporary state and organized groups of mighty enterprises corporations These business groups business in broad sense apart of winning profits can influence economic outcomes The latter means economic power Profit oriented groupings or corporations according to Susan Strange exert impact simply because of weight and position they have in economic structure either intentionally via their organizations and lobbyists in the polity That s why they penetrate society as a whole not economic activities alone In result contract relations and respect for financial surplus overcome social relations Argumentation thus oriented is backed by description of real processes The corresponding parts of the book contain short studies on financialization narrow interest representations and contemporary transformation of democratic welfare state which is a debt state in fact Old theories inspire understanding of new configurations
