Technological Innovation in Legacy Sectors William B. Bonvillian, Charles Weiss, 2015-08-18 The American economy faces two deep problems expanding innovation and raising the rate of quality job creation Both have roots in a neglected problem the resistance of Legacy economic sectors to innovation While the U S has focused its policies on breakthrough innovations to create new economic frontiers like information technology and biotechnology most of its economy is locked into Legacy sectors defended by technological economic political social paradigms that block competition from disruptive innovations that could challenge their models Americans like to build technology covered wagons and take them out west to open new innovation frontiers we don't head our wagons back east to bring innovation to our Legacy sectors By failing to do so the economy misses a major opportunity for innovation which is the bedrock of U S competitiveness and its standard of living Technological Innovation in Legacy Sectors uses a new unifying conceptual framework to identify the shared features underlying structural obstacles to innovation in major Legacy sectors energy air and auto transport the electric power grid buildings manufacturing agriculture health care delivery and higher education and develops approaches to understand and transform them It finds both strengths and obstacles to innovation in the national innovation environments a new concept that combines the innovation system and the broader innovation context for a group of Asian and European economies Manufacturing is a major Legacy sector that presents a particular challenge because it is a critical stage in the innovation process By increasingly offshoring production the U S is losing important parts of its innovation capacity Innovate here produce here where the U S took all the gains of its strong innovation system at every stage is being replaced by innovate here produce there which threatens to lead to produce there innovate there To bring innovation to Legacy sectors authors William Bonvillian and Charles Weiss recommend that policymakers focus on all stages of innovation from research through implementation They should fill institutional gaps in the innovation system and take measures to address structural obstacles to needed disruptive innovations In the specific case of advanced manufacturing the production ecosystem can be recreated to reverse jobless innovation and add manufacturing led innovation to the U S's still strong research oriented innovation system

Marijuana Federalism Jonathan H. Adler,2020-03-17 On marijuana there is no mutual federal state policy will this cause federalism to go up in smoke More than one half the 50 states have legalized the use of marijuana at least for medical purposes and about a dozen of those states have gone further legalizing it for recreational use Either step would have been almost inconceivable just a couple decades ago But marijuana remains an illegal controlled substance under a 1970 federal law so those who sell or grow it could still face federal prosecution How can state and federal laws be in such conflict And could federal law put the new state laws in jeopardy at some point This book an edited volume with contributions by highly regarded legal scholars and policy analysts is the first detailed examination of these and other questions surrounding a highly unusual conflict between state and federal policies and laws Marijuana Federalism surveys the constitutional issues that come into play with this conflict as well as the policy questions related to law enforcement at the federal versus state levels It also describes specific areas such as banking regulations in which federal law has particularly far reaching effects Readers will gain a greater understanding of federalism in general including how the division of authority between the federal and state governments operates in the context of policy and legal disputes between the two levels This book also will help inform debates as other states consider whether to jump on the bandwagon of marijuana legalization
