1. Describe the different structures and functions of the eye.

The cornea, iris, lens, retina, and optic nerve. The cornea is the front part of the eye that light enters through. The iris is the colored part of the eye that controls the amount of light entering. The lens is a transparent structure that focuses light on the retina. The retina is the back part of the eye that contains photoreceptors (rods and cones) that convert light into electrical signals. The optic nerve carries these signals to the brain.
2. Explain the process of vision.

Light enters the eye through the cornea and is focused by the lens onto the retina. The retina contains photoreceptors (rods and cones) that convert light into electrical signals. These signals are then sent to the brain via the optic nerve, where they are processed into visual information.
3. Describe the structure and function of the ear.

The ear is divided into three parts: the outer ear, the middle ear, and the inner ear. The outer ear (pinna) collects sound waves and directs them into the ear canal. The middle ear contains three small bones (the ossicles) that amplify the sound waves. The inner ear contains the cochlea, which converts sound waves into electrical signals that are sent to the brain via the auditory nerve.
4. Explain the process of hearing.

Sound waves enter the ear through the ear canal and cause the eardrum (tympanic membrane) to vibrate. These vibrations are transmitted to the three ossicles in the middle ear, which amplify the sound. The amplified sound waves then enter the cochlea in the inner ear, where they are converted into electrical signals by hair cells. These signals are then sent to the brain via the auditory nerve.
5. Describe the structure and function of the nose.

The nose is a part of the respiratory system that filters, warms, and moistens the air we breathe. It consists of the nasal cavity, which is divided into two nostrils. The nasal cavity is lined with mucous membranes that trap dust and germs. The air is then warmed and moistened by the blood vessels in the nasal cavity before it reaches the lungs.
