International Human Rights Law and Structural Discrimination Elisabeth Veronika Henn, 2019-07-03 International courts and other actors are increasingly taking into account pre-existing social structures and inequalities when addressing and redressing human rights violations in particular discrimination against specific groups. To date however academic legal research has paid little attention to this gentle turn in international human rights law and practice to address structural discrimination. In order to address this gap this study analyses whether and to what extent international and regional human rights frameworks foresee positive obligations for

State parties to address structural discrimination and more precisely gender hierarchies and stereotypes as root causes of gender based violence In order to answer this question the book analyses whether or not international human rights law requires pursuing a root cause sensitive and transformative approach to structural discrimination against women in general and to the prevention protection and reparation of violence against women in particular to what extent international courts and quasi judicial bodies address State responsibility for the systemic occurrence of violence against women and its underlying root causes whether or not international courts and monitoring bodies have suitable tools for addressing structural discrimination within the society of a contracting party and the limits to a transformative approach

Religious Freedom Under Scrutiny Heiner Bielefeldt, Michael Wiener, 2019-11-22 Freedom of religion or belief is deeply entrenched in international human rights conventions and constitutional traditions around the world Article 18 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights enshrines the right to freedom of thought conscience and religion as does the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights which the United Nations General Assembly adopted in 1966 A rich jurisprudence on freedom of religion or belief is based on the European Convention on Human Rights drafted in 1950 by the Council of Europe Similar regional guarantees exist in the framework of the Organization of American States as well as within the African Union Freedom of religion or belief has found recognition in numerous national constitutions and some governments have shown a particularly strong commitment to the international promotion of this right As Heiner Bielefeldt and Michael Wiener observe however freedom of religion or belief remains a source of political conflict legal controversy and intellectual debate In Religious Freedom Under Scrutiny Bielefeldt and Wiener explore various critiques leveled at this right For example does freedom of religion contribute to the spread of Western neoliberal values to the detriment of religious and cultural diversity Can religious freedom serve as the entry point for antifeminist agendas within the human rights framework Drawing on their considerable experience in the field Bielefeldt and Wiener provide a typological overview and analysis of violations around the world that illustrate the underlying principles as well as the relationship between freedom of religion or belief and other human rights Religious Freedom Under Scrutiny argues that without freedom of religion or belief human rights cannot fully address our complex needs yearnings and vulnerabilities as human beings Furthermore ignoring or marginalizing freedom of religion or belief would weaken the plausibility attractiveness and legitimacy of the entire system of human rights The Evolutionary Interpretation of Treaties Eirik Bjorge, 2014-07-17 If an old treaty regulating commerce or forbidding degrading treatment of persons is to be interpreted decades after its conclusion does commerce or degrading treatment of persons have the same meaning at the time of interpretation as they had when the treaty was concluded The evolutionary interpretation of treaties has proven one of the most controversial topics in the practice of international law Indeed it has been seen as going against the very grain of the law of treaties and has been argued to be contrary to the intention of the parties breaching the principle of consent This book asks what the place of evolutionary interpretation is within the understanding of treaties at a time when many important international legal instruments are over five decades old It sets out to place the evolutionary interpretation of treaties on a firm footing within the Vienna rules of interpretation as codified in Articles 31-33 of the Vienna Convention on the Law of Treaties The book demonstrates that the evolutionary interpretation of treaties in common with all other types of interpretation is in fact based upon an objective understanding of the intention of the parties In order to marry intention and evolution the book argues that on the one hand evolutionary interpretation is the product of the correct application of Articles 31-33 and on the other that Articles 31-33 are geared towards the objective establishment of the intention of the parties The evolutionary interpretation of treaties is therefore shown to represent an intended evolution The Yale Journal of International Law, 2005 The Nature of the Obligations Under the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights María Magdalena Sepúlveda Carmona, 2003 1 2 A new moment International Conflict and Security Law Sergey Sayapin, Rustam Atadjanov, Umesh Kadam, Gerhard Kemp, Nicolás Zambrana-Tévar, Noëlle Quénivet, 2022-07-21 This unique two volume book covers virtually the whole spectrum of international conflict and security law It proceeds from values protected by international law Part I through substantive rules in which these values are embodied Part II to international and domestic institutions that enforce the law Part III It subsequently deals with current challenges in the application of rules of international conflict and security law Part IV and crimes as the most serious violations of those rules Part V Finally in the section on case studies Part VI lessons learnt from a number of conflict situations are discussed Written by an international team of experts representing all the major legal systems of the world the book is intended as a reference work for students and researchers domestic and international judges as well as for legal advisers to governments and international and non governmental organisations Sergey Sayapin is Associate Professor and Associate Dean at KIMEP University School of Law in Almaty Kazakhstan Rustam Atadjanov is Assistant Professor at KIMEP University School of Law in Almaty Kazakhstan Umesh Kadam is formerly Additional Professor at the National Law School of India University Bangalore India and Legal Adviser with the International Committee of the Red Cross Gerhard Kemp is Professor of Law at the University of Derby in the United Kingdom Nicolás Zambrana Tévar is Associate Professor at KIMEP University School of Law in Almaty Kazakhstan Noëlle Quénivet is Professor in International Law at the University of the West
