House Science and Astronautics,1969 Medical and Health Care Books and Serials in Print ,1986 Science, Gender and the Exploitation of Animals in Britain Since 1945 Catherine Duxbury,2021-09-30 This book offers an historical analysis of the culture of animal dependent science in Britain from 1945 to the present exploring key areas of animal experimentation such as warfare medical science and law from a gendered perspective Questioning the nature of knowledge production in this area and how animal experimentation intersects with broader cultural norms and values concerning sex and gender it examines the impact of contemporary forms of capitalism on animal dependent science its historical trajectory and gendered configuration With close attention to the broad social context from the creation of the Welfare State and the loss of Empire to the emergence of neoliberalism in the 1980s and its present day omnipotent manifestation the author asks how animal experimentation and the use of nonhuman animals in specific areas of science is gendered and has implications for women Drawing on a variety of sociological philosophical feminist and historical theories and engaging with a wealth of primary and secondary materials of scientific research of the time Science Gender and the Exploitation of Animals in Britain Since 1945 contends that there is a persistent gendered ideology of animal use which remains inscribed within the policies of the British neoliberal state As such it will appeal to scholars of sociology history and philosophy with interests in gender and the treatment of nonhuman animals Access to Scientific Research David J. democratisation of science including how the information needs of knowledge workers outside academia can be embraced in future

Workflows for e-Science Ian J. Taylor, Ewa Deelman, Dennis B. Gannon, Matthew Shields, 2007-12-31 This collection of articles on Workflows for e-Science is very timely and important. Increasingly to attack the next generation of scientific problems multidisciplinary and distributed teams of scientists need to collaborate to make progress on these new Grand Challenges. Scientists now need to access and exploit computational resources and databases that are geographically distributed through the use of high speed networks. Virtual Organizations or VOs must be established that span multiple administrative domains and/or institutions and which can provide appropriate authentication and authorization services and access controls to collaborating members. Some of these VOs may only have a fleeting existence but the lifetime of others may run into many years. The Grid community is attempting to develop both standards and middleware to enable both scientists and industry to build such VOs routinely and robustly. This of course has been the goal of research in distributed computing for many years but now these technologies come with a new twist: service orientation. By specifying resources in terms of a service description rather than allowing direct access to the resources the IT industry believes that such an approach results in the construction of more robust distributed systems. The industry has therefore united around web services as the standard technology to implement such service-oriented architectures and to ensure interoperability between different vendor systems.
