Final Assessment

Identify one method associated with this experiment and give your preliminary conclusions.

Q1	Method	Conclusions
1	1. The NMR spectrum shows a triplet for the protons of the methyl group in the molecule. This indicates that the protons are equivalent and are coupled to two equivalent protons. The chemical shift is approximately 1.2 ppm, which is typical for alkyl protons.	Based on the NMR spectrum, the molecule is likely to be a simple alkane. The triplet indicates a methyl group, and the chemical shift is consistent with this assignment. Further analysis of the spectrum, including integration and comparison with reference compounds, would be required to identify the molecule definitively.
