Special Advocates in the Adversarial System John Jackson, 2019-07-24 The last twenty years have seen an unprecedented rise in the use of secret courts or closed material proceedings largely brought about in response to the need to protect intelligence sources in the fight against terrorism This has called into question the commitment of legal systems to long cherished principles of adversarial justice and due process Foremost among the measures designed to minimise the prejudice caused to parties who have been excluded from such proceedings has been the use of special advocates who are given access to sensitive national security material and can make representations to the court on behalf of excluded parties Special advocates are now deployed across a range of administrative civil and criminal proceedings in many common law jurisdictions including the UK Canada New Zealand Hong Kong and Australia This book analyses the professional services special advocates offer across a range of different types of closed proceedings Drawing on extensive interviews with special advocates and with lawyers and judges who have worked with them the book examines the manner in which special advocates are appointed and supported how their position differs from that of ordinary counsel within the adversarial system and the challenges they face in the work that they do Comparisons are made between different special advocate systems and with other models of security cleared counsel including that used in the United States to consider what changes might be made to strengthen their adversarial role in closed proceedings In making an assessment of the future of special advocacy the book argues that there is a need to reconceptualise the unique role that special advocates play in the administration of justice

Power and Legitimacy Peter L. Lindseth, 2010 The implications of European integration for national democracy and constitutionalism are well known Nevertheless as the events of the last decade made clear the EU's complex system of governance has been unable to achieve a democratic or constitutional legitimacy in its own right In Power and Legitimacy Reconciling Europe and the Nation State Peter L Lindseth traces the roots of this paradox to integration's dependence on the postwar constitutional settlement of administrative governance on the national level Supranational policymaking has relied on various forms of oversight from national constitutional bodies following models that were first developed in the administrative state and then translated into the European context These national oversight mechanisms executive legislative and judicial have over the last half century developed to address the central disconnect in the integration process between the need for supranational regulatory power on the one hand and the persistence of national constitutional legitimacy on the other In defining the ways European public law has sought to reconcile these two conflicting demands Professor Lindseth lays the foundation for a better understanding of the administrative not constitutional nature of European governance going forward

DWP's Commissioning Strategy and the Flexible New Deal Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Work and Pensions Committee, 2009 The design and delivery of employment programmes are critical to the success of welfare reform and fundamental to the Government's aspiration of an 80 per cent employment rate The new Flexible New Deal FND programme will be part of the revised JSA regime and will be delivered by large prime contractors who will work with subcontractors at a subregional level Prime contractors will be given longer contracts and have greater autonomy to design individualised support for customers who have been unemployed for more than 12 months The Committee welcomes the move towards longer contracts and endorses the principles of the FND programme and was impressed by the work that Jobcentre Plus staff are undertaking to prepare for the introduction of the new regime Yet there are significant concerns that fundamental flaws exist in the design of FND and the assumptions on which it is based The Department for Work and Pensions DWP accepts that on flows onto FND could be 300 per cent higher than first indicated with implications for resources at the providers and possible delays in implementing FND in some areas The Committee urges DWP to confirm that changes will be made to the budget to reflect the massive increase in predicted onflows to FND It might not be possible for providers to meet the targets on which contractor payments are principally based and the Committee received evidence to suggest that the financial model for FND is flawed and its targets unrealistic It is crucial that DWP and other departments ensure that collaborative working with City Strategies local authorities and other local Partners is facilitated at all levels if joint commissioning is to become a reality Ministry of Defence Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons:

Committee of Public Accounts,2010-03-29 Since October 2001 565 service men and women have been seriously injured in Iraq and Afghanistan some 125 000 troops based there have sought medical help for minor injuries and illnesses and a further 1 700 for mental health conditions Nearly all seriously injured troops who return back to the UK for medical treatment go first to the NHS hospital at Selly Oak and then to Headley Court for rehabilitation The care of the seriously injured to date has been highly effective and support for the families of seriously injured troops is good The main challenge the Department faces should casualties increase significantly is to ensure that all military patients will receive the same standard of care they currently experience at Selly Oak and Headley Court Some soldiers have suffered severe life changing injuries and will require specialist care for many years This presents a further long term challenge not only for the Department who provide specialist care for them and support for their families while they remain in the Services but also for the NHS and other government departments who will become responsible for the medical care and support of seriously injured soldiers after they leave the Armed Forces Minor injury and illness are a lesser issue but still have the potential to impact on the fighting strength and morale of our Armed Forces in Afghanistan and the increase in rates from 4 to 7 per cent since 2006 is of concern Constitutional implications of the Cabinet manual Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons:

Political and Constitutional Reform Committee,2011-03-29 Whilst welcoming the motivation behind the Manual and the transparency it brings to the workings of Government the Committee says that in practice the Manual may be treated as having greater authority than originally intended particularly where its content extends beyond matters purely for the Executive All the work of the Executive including the Cabinet Manual is subject to scrutiny by Parliament The fact that the document is primarily directed at the Executive does not exempt it from this scrutiny The Committee makes some practical suggestions for specific improvements to the text focusing particularly on the chapters covering government formation and ministers and Parliament The Committee also challenges some of the specific content of the draft the failure to include the convention acknowledged elsewhere by the Government that Parliament should have the opportunity to debate decisions to commit troops to armed conflict guidance on when a Prime Minister should resign following a hung Parliament The Committee recommends that the House should hold a regular debate on the Manual The Committee felt despite dissatisfaction with parts of the original draft there was no reason to delay production of an approved version The new version need not be perfect as it will be subject to further review

The Operation of the Special Immigration Appeals Commission (SIAC) and the Use of Special Advocates Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Constitutional Affairs Committee, 2005 operation of the Special Immigration Appeals Commission SIAC and the use of special Advocates Seventh report of session 2004 05 Vol 2 Oral and written Evidence Operation of the Family Courts Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Justice Committee, 2011-07-14 Additional written evidence is contained in Volume 3 available on the Committee website at www.parliament.uk/justicecommittee

The management of staff sickness absence in the Department for Transport and its agencies Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts, 2007-11-20 The Department of Transport and its seven executive agencies average 10 4 days of sickness for each full time employee compared to a Civil Service average of 9 8 days However the performance is varied The central Department and four agencies have sickness levels at or below comparable organisations but the Driving Standards Agency and the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency have absence rates of 13 1 and 14 day respectively On the basis of a Comptroller and Auditor General's report the Committee have examined current sickness levels in the Department and actions being taken to meet their 2010 targets They conclude that the Agencies need a better understanding of why some staff take so much sick leave Although there appears to be a correlation with low paid repetitive administrative jobs there are also concerns about leadership within the Department Measures have therefore been taken to strengthen management in areas involving repetitive work

EU proposals for reform of the Common Fisheries Policy Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Environment, Food and Rural Affairs Committee, 2012-02-24 Additional written evidence is contained in Volume 3 available on the Committee website at www.parliament.uk/efracom

House of Commons - Transport Committee: Access to Transport For Disabled People - Volume I: HC 116 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Transport Committee, 2013-09-17 In the UK some 11 5m people already live with a recognised disability and more than a fifth of them experience some difficulty when using transport networks So it's essential that the Department for Transport delivers an ambitious Accessibility Action Plan Changes made ahead of the 2012 Paralympic Games delivered access for disabled people to significantly more parts of the public transport network for the first time and highlighted the immense value of such improvements for all Yet a year later there is a risk that some of the momentum from London 2012 is being lost because further key accessibility improvements planned have been watered down or abandoned The Committee s recommendations include imposing penalties on bus operators who claim to offer accessible routes but then fail to provide accessible buses the phased introduction of audio visual information systems on all buses over the next ten years phasing out the need for disabled travellers having to book organised assistance in advance financial incentives to encourage investment in fully accessible vehicles by taxi and private care hire vehicle operators and a change to EU rules so that in future airlines are required to allow carers to travel free of charge when the airline judges a disabled person incapable of travelling independently The Cabinet Office should convene a working group of ministers and officials to improve cross government working on accessibility in order to secure the full benefits to be gained from widening disabled people s access to employment and training healthcare and wider participation in all parts of society
