

PRIORITIES

- list your assignments by due date, time needed, or any other topic
- Start with your #1 assignment; if you get tired, work on the other ones as a productive study break!

STUDYING: HOW-TOs, ADVICE, & TIPS

In a typical hour of studying...

- actual productive studying
- not studying but still productive
- study breaks (stretch, nap, etc)

What Worked for me

If there's a big assignment/exam, get started early! Don't wait until last minute. If you have questions, or don't understand something, email/ask your professor! It'll show that you care about the class and leave a good impression. Don't worry if you don't get something the first time you try it — some of my best essays took 5 drafts to get right!

Don't forget to reward yourself for doing things well!

Math help: Wolfram Alpha
In general: Khan Academy, crash course (youtube), Sparknotes, etc.
You can always ask other people for help, too!

EXTRA RESOURCES!

Try to think of mistakes not as failures, but as chances to learn!

HOW TO CRAM

One word: don't. cramming will stress you out and doesn't help in the long run. Instead, start studying earlier

studying timeline

day 1: you learn what's going to be in the test day 2: review your notes if you want, make some study guides!

day 3: reread notes!

2 days before test: look over your notes, textbook, and any other resources you can find the night before: RELAX. read over your study guide before you go to sleep (try for 8 hrs!)

TEST DAY: you will do great! trust in your knowledge, and believe in yourself! you totally got this!!

Teaching and Learning at a Distance Michael Simonson,Susan M. Zvacek,Sharon Smaldino,2019-07-01 Teaching and Learning at a Distance is written for introductory distance education courses for preservice or in service teachers and for training programs that discuss teaching distant learners or managing distance education systems This text provides readers with the basic information needed to be knowledgeable distance educators and leaders of distance education programs The teacher or trainer who uses this book will be able to distinguish between appropriate uses of distance education In this text we take the following themes The first theme is the definition of distance education Before we started writing the first edition of Teaching and Learning at a Distance we carefully reviewed the literature to determine the definition that would be at the foundation of our writing This definition is based on the work of Desmond Keegan but is unique to this book This definition of distance education has been adopted by the Association for Educational Communications and Technology and by the Encyclopedia Britannica The second theme of the book was the importance of research to the development of the contents of the book The best practices presented in Teaching and Learning at a Distance are validated by scientific evidence Certainly there are rules of thumb but we have always attempted to only include recommendations that can be supported by research The third theme of Teaching and Learning at a Distance is derived from Richard Clark's famous quote published in the Review of Educational Research that states that media are mere vehicles that do not directly influence achievement. Clark's controversial work is discussed in the book but is also fundamental to the book's advocacy for distance education. In other words, we authors did not make the claim that education delivered at a distance was inherently better than other ways people learn. Distance delivered instruction is not a magical approach that makes learners achieve more. The fourth theme of the book is equivalency theory. Here we presented the concept that instruction should be provided to learners that is equivalent rather than identical to what might be delivered in a traditional environment. Equivalency theory helps the instructional designer approach the development of instruction for each learner without attempting to duplicate what happens in a face-to-face classroom. The final theme for Teaching and Learning at a Distance is the idea that the book should be comprehensive; that it should cover as much of the various ways instruction is made available to distant learners as is possible. It should be a single source of information about the field.
