Alder,2013 The Kingdom of Lesotho is a mountainous enclave in southern Africa and like mountain zones throughout the world it is isolated steeped in tradition and home to few outsiders The people known as Basotho are respected in the area as the only tribe never to be defeated by European colonizers Greg Alder arrives in Tsoeneng in 2003 as the village s first foreign resident since 1966 Back then the Canadian priest who had been living there was robbed and murdered in his quarters Set up as a Peace Corps teacher at the village s secondary school Alder finds himself incompetent in so many unexpected ways How do you keep warm in this place where it snows but there is no electricity How do you feed yourself where there are no grocery stores let alone restaurants Tsoeneng is a world apart from his home in America but Alder persists in adapting He learns to grow food he learns to speak the strange local language and he makes enough friends such that he is eventually invited to participate in initiation rites Yet even as he seems accepted into the Tsoeneng fold he sees how much of an outsider he will always remain and perhaps want to remain The Mountain School is insightful and candid at times accepting and at times rebellious It is the ultimate tale of the transplant The African Book Publishing Record

First Year at School: An International Perspective Peter Tymms,Tiago Bartholo,Sarah Howie,Elena Kardanova,Mariane Campelo Koslinski,Christine Merrell,Helen Wildy,2023-06-26 This book explores an under researched but vital part of education the first year at primary elementary school The work shows that children s progress varies enormously from school to school class to class and child to child This variation is important because the more progress that children make in that first year of school the higher their academic attainment at the end of compulsory schooling The iPIS international

Performance Indicators in Primary Schools project upon which this book is based has been able to provide deeper insights into some of the key issues within and across different contexts whilst highlighting new and some ongoing issues. Despite all the work there remain unanswered or new puzzling issues which are also explored. We need to know how to improve the education at that stage and more broadly we need greater clarity about when children should be taught to read and be introduced to formal arithmetic in other words when they should start school. We also need to be clearer about whether when and how young children should be assessed. The book will suggest some answers but it will raise important questions and dilemmas for which we do not as yet have answers.

Primary Education in Crisis Brahm Fleisch, 2008. In the past decade the national preoccupation has been on the crisis in secondary schools. Lurking behind the intractable problem of low pass rates, the dysfunctional schools and the small number of higher grade mathematics and science graduates is the calamity in primary education. Drawing on the work of researchers in a range of fields including psychology, sociology, anthropology, linguistics, economics, the health sciences and mathematics education, this book documents the depth and scope of the primary education crisis and provides a comprehensive and rigorous explanation of its causes. Primary education in crisis pulls together the wealth of research on health, poverty, resources, language and teaching as factors in academic achievement in reading, writing and mathematics. At the centre of the book is an analysis of the published studies that systematically document what teachers teach and fail to teach and why it is that teaching is at the heart of the crisis in primary education. The author suggests that there are no quick fixes but only hard choices and that for reform to succeed it must be evidence based.

An Introduction to Psycholinguistics Danny Steinberg, Natalia Sciarini, 2013-10-08. Learning About Language is an exciting and ambitious series of introductions to fundamental topics in language, linguistics and related areas. The books are designed for students of linguistics and those who are studying language as part of a wider course. Cognitive Linguistics explores the idea that language reflects our experience of the world. It shows that our ability to use language is closely related to other cognitive abilities such as categorization, perception, memory and attention allocation. Concepts and mental images expressed and evoked by linguistic means are linked by conceptual metaphors and metonymies and merged into more comprehensive cognitive and cultural models, frames or scenarios. It is only against this background that human communication makes sense. After 25 years of intensive research, cognitive linguistic thinking now holds a firm place both in the wider linguistic and the cognitive science communities. An Introduction to Cognitive Linguistics carefully explains the central concepts of categorization of prototype and gestalt perception of basic level and conceptual hierarchies of figure and ground and of metaphor and metonymy for which an innovative description is provided. It also brings together issues such as iconicity, lexical change, grammaticalization and language teaching that have profited considerably from being put on a cognitive basis. The second edition of this popular introduction provides a comprehensive and accessible up to date overview of Cognitive Linguistics Clarifies the basic notions supported by new evidence and examples for their application in language learning Discusses major recent developments in the field the increasing attention paid to metonymies Construction Grammar Conceptual Blending and its role in online processing Explores links with neighbouring fields like Relevance Theory Uses should focus on holistic development In this book the authors use multiple research approaches and methods of gathering data in their respective fields to examine the impact of the disruption and determine the support needs of learners Data gathered through the different methods are processed and findings are presented The findings have implications for both
