The Increasing Risk of Floods and Tornadoes in Southern Africa Godwell Nhamo, Lazarus Chapungu, 2021-08-03 This volume discusses the increasing occurrence of floods and tornadoes in Southern Africa over the last few years The book discusses existing flood and tornado management protocols indigenous approaches to mitigate disaster risk urban and peri urban flooding tornado induced flooding and windstorms and the challenges and vulnerabilities associated with rural and transboundary floods The book offers planning and recovery strategies to minimise impacts from these events through sustainable means Such means include sustainable drainage systems waste management in harbors and beaches community engagement in flood prone areas and improved food security measures in urban poor households Sustainability of Southern African Ecosystems under Global Change Graham P. von Maltitz, Guy F. Midgley, Jennifer Veitch, Christian Brümmer, Reimund P. Rötter, Finn A. Viehberg, Maik Veste, 2024-01-05 This open access book about the sustainability of marine and terrestrial ecosystems in southern Africa provides a synthesis of the research program Science Partnerships for the Adaptation to Complex Earth System Processes SPACES II 2018 2022 It addresses the scientific social and economic issues related to climate change its potential impacts on the various ecosystems adaptations and management interventions for enhancing systems resilience in Southern Africa It is written by numerous scientists from African states and Germany and summarizes the latest research findings which are of great relevance for a better understanding of climate change impacts adaptations and vulnerabilities as well as for developing management options and policy options to reduce the associated risks This is crucial considering that the projected African population increase is exceptional Furthermore climate change is assumed to hit southern Africa extremely hard with a significant increase in extreme events and the frequency of severe droughts heat waves and flooding Southern Africa hosts a high variety of ecosystems which belongs to important biodiversity hotspots for unique flora and fauna The surrounding oceans form in turn a bottle neck within the ocean s global thermohaline circulation act as a still poorly understood carbon sink and source and play an important role for fisheries as they are highly productive Considering these important aspects the book is an important interdisciplinary contribution to the scientific literature and will find a wide readership The book is aimed at students teachers and scientists in the fields of terrestrial and marine ecology environmental nature and landscape planning agriculture environmental and resource management biodiversity and nature conservation as well as scientists and representatives in specialised authorities and associations nature conservationists and policy makers of related disciplines Walmart in the Global South Carolina Bank Muñoz, Bridget Kenny, Antonio Stecher, 2018-05-02 As the largest private employer in the world Walmart dominates media and academic debate about the global expansion of transnational retail corporations and the working conditions in retail operations and across the supply chain Yet far from being a monolithic force conquering the world Walmart must confront and adapt to diverse policies and practices pertaining to regulation economy history union organization preexisting labor cultures and civil society in every country into which it enters This transnational aspect of the Walmart story including the diversity and flexibility of its strategies and practices outside the United States is mostly unreported Walmart in the Global South presents empirical case studies of Walmart s labor practices and supply chain operations in a number of countries including Chile Brazil Argentina Nicaragua Mexico South Africa and Thailand It assesses the similarities and differences in Walmart s acceptance into varying national contexts which reveals when and how state regulation and politics have served to redirect company practice and to what effect Regulatory context state politics trade unions local cultures and global labor solidarity emerge as vectors with very different force around the world The volume s contributors show how and why foreign workers have successfully though not uniformly driven changes in Walmart s corporate culture This makes Walmart in the Global South a practical guide for organizations that promote social justice and engage in worker struggles including unions worker centers and other nonprofit entities

Handbook of Climate Change Across the Food Supply Chain Walter Leal Filho,Ilija Djekic,Sergiy Smetana,Marina Kovaleva,2022-04-22 This book presents climate change as a global phenomenon which affects the entire food chain Many studies analyzing environmental impacts of food systems confirm significant effects of food production on climate change Most of them associate primary production with emission of greenhouse gasses identified as one of the causes resulting in warming the atmosphere and global climate effects A wider perspective shows that the food chains start at farms with consumers being at the end of the pipeline This approach emphasizes the role of the entire food chain highlighting different kinds of environmental impacts affecting climate change On the other side temperature changes and variations of precipitation patterns together with extreme weather events and water reduction are recognized as predictors for producing less food decreased food quality new food safety risks biodiversity losses and depletion of resources associated with food production in modified circumstances Last but not least these effects introduce new threats known as food security where some assumptions stress that almost one billion of people are hungry not receiving enough food as a result of climate changes As a result the UN highlights the need for combating climate change and promotes sustainable food consumption and production Based on the perceived need to promote and disseminate information on climate change related to food system the Handbook of Climate change across the food supply chain is being produced The publication compiles information experiences practical initiatives and projects around the subject matter and makes it available to a wide audience It is expected that the Handbook of Climate change across the food supply chain makes many benefits of climate service clearer and inter alia leads to an increase in the demand for such important services Annual Report South Africa. Department of Basic Education,2016 Border Jumping and Migration Control in Southern Africa Francis Musoni,2020-04-07 With the end of apartheid rule in South Africa and the ongoing economic crisis in Zimbabwe the border between these Southern African countries has become one of the busiest inland ports of entry in the world As border crossers wait for clearance crime violence and illegal entries have become rampant Francis Musoni observes that border jumping has become a way of life for many of those who live on both sides of the Limpopo River and he explores the reasons for this including searches for better paying jobs and access to food and clothing at affordable prices Musoni sets these actions into a framework of illegality He considers how countries have failed to secure their borders why passports are denied to travelers and how border jumping has become a phenomenon with a long history especially in Africa Musoni emphasizes cross border travelers active participation in the making of this history and how clandestine mobility has presented opportunity and creative possibilities for those who are willing to take the risk

Minerals Yearbook ,2011 Indigenous Water and Drought Management in a Changing World Miguel Sioui,2022-05-19 Indigenous Water and Drought Management in a Changing World presents a series of global case studies that examine how different Indigenous groups are dealing with various water management challenges and finding creative and culturally specific ways of developing solutions to these challenges With contributions from Indigenous and non Indigenous academics scientists and water management experts this volume provides an overview of key water management challenges specific to Indigenous peoples proposes possible policy solutions both at the international and national levels and outlines culturally relevant tools for assessing vulnerability and building capacity In recent decades global climate change particularly drought has brought about additional water management challenges especially in drought prone regions where increasing average temperatures and diminishing precipitation are leading to water crises Because their livelihoods are often dependent on the land and water Indigenous groups native to those regions have direct insights into the localized impacts of global environmental change and are increasingly developing their own adaptation and mitigation strategies and solutions based on local Indigenous knowledge IK Many Indigenous groups around the globe are also faced with mounting pressure from extractive industries like mining and forestry which further threaten their water resources The various cases presented in Indigenous Water and Drought Management in a Changing World provide much needed insights into the particular issues faced by Indigenous peoples in preserving their water resources as well as actionable information that can inform future scientific research and policymaking aimed at developing more integrated region specific and culturally relevant solutions to these critical challenges Includes diverse case studies from around the world Provides cutting edge perspectives about Indigenous peoples water management issues and IK based solutions Presents maps for most case studies along with a summary box to conclude each chapter

Challenging Inequality in South Africa Michelle Williams,Vishwas Satgar,2021-05-13 In Challenging Inequality in South Africa Transitional Compasses leading scholars of South Africa explore creative possibilities to challenge structures of economic social and political power that produce inequality Through concrete empirical examples of movements workers struggles initiatives and politics in challenging inequality the authors illustrate transitional compasses that go beyond protest politics to a generative politics a politics of building the alternatives in the interstitial spaces of capitalism The conceptual framing is oriented around the way in which power is produced and reproduced through intricate relationships between hegemonic projects and everyday life While power underpins all social relations it is often taken for granted as it is frequently hidden behind other social relations Resistance to power emerges through engendering counter hegemonic projects that are intertwined with alternative everyday practices The authors highlight sources of alternative forms of power found in resistance to dominant forms of power through concrete experiences to create transformative alternatives To concretize the conceptual framing the authors look at the emancipatory possibilities of a universal basic income the use of law in tackling inequality in health and education creative initiatives to establish a people centred food system through food sovereignty new forms of organizing led by precarious workers democratic possibilities in local state delivery and attempts at reconceptualizing the good life by looking at issues of happiness and ecosocialism The chapters in this book were originally published in the journal Globalizations

Explores the field's historical antecedents and ways in which leadership can transcend the narrow disciplinary and bureaucratic constraints imposed by current research designs and methods Advances radically new possibilities for remaking educational leadership research and educational institutions Urban Inclusivity in Southern Africa Hangwelani H. Magidimisha-Chipungu, Lovemore Chipungu, 2021-09-28

This book's point of departure rests on the premises that dimensions of the mainstream inclusive city discourse fail to capture in detail vulnerable clusters of society being women children and the aging the minority clusters i.e. the blind the disabled and migrants In addition it fails to recognize the increase of spatial inequality driven by racial and class differences a factor that has seen an increase in community violence and protests The focus on spatial inequality has for a long time blindfolded urban authorities to ignore exclusion arising out of the same environments created with a notion of creating inclusivity Hence this book collapses spatial walls as it seeks to uncover the true perspectives of inclusivity in cities beyond spatial dimensions but within social realms The depth of this book's enquiry rests on its critical investigation of Southern African cities through historical epochs of apartheid and colonialism in the region The United Nations world water development report 2016: water and jobs UNESCO, 2016-02-29

The United Nations World Water Assessment Programme WWAP is hosted and led by UNESCO WWAP brings together the work of 31 UN Water Members as well as 38 Partners to publish The United Nations World Water Development Report WWDR series The annual World Water Development Reports focus on strategic water issues UN Water Members and Partners all experts in their fields contribute with latest findings on a specific theme This edition of the World Water Development Report focuses on Water and Jobs and seeks to inform decision makers inside and outside the water community about the importance of the water and jobs nexus for the social and economic development and environmental sustainability of countries rich and poor The importance of water for jobs across economies is such that this report could be subtitled No water No jobs Indeed a great majority of jobs are dependent upon water and therefore increasingly at risk under conditions of water scarcity

Alternative Feed Ingredients for Sustainable Livestock Production Juana Catarina Cariri Chagas, Gabriel Da Silva Viana, Marcos Inacio Marcondes, 2025-08-12 Population growth and rising incomes in developing countries are leading to an increasing demand for animal products As limited possibilities exist to increase the area of arable land food production depends on an increase in crop yield per hectare However more than 70% of global agricultural land is already used to produce feed to support livestock production Moreover the remaining arable land available is used for food and fuel and in the upcoming years due to the consequences of climate change and global warming some of this land will be compromised through droughts and desertification Therefore using ingredients such as non human edible products native crops and by products in animal feed is necessary and unavoidable Water Challenges in Rural and Urban Sub-Saharan Africa and their Management Joan Nyika, Megersa Olumana Dinka, 2023-04-20 Sub Saharan Africa grapples with many public health issues such as food insecurity increased prevalence of infectious diseases limited access to clean water supply poor nutrition and lack of improved health services for its populace IMF 2021 Of all these challenges the inaccessibility of clean water supply for both the rural and urban populace is the most pressing challenge which has been exacerbated by extensive pollution and climate change crises The issue of water access and supply affects both rural and urban populations At rural areas water is accessed in yard taps and in arid regions through water kiosks managed by private owners Among the urban poor water access is compromised by poor supply infrastructure especially among informal settlers and risks such as contamination during the supply chain are imminent This book therefore seeks to close this knowledge gap by 1 generating a water resources inventory for Sub Saharan Africa region 2 exploring the water crises in both its urban and rural settings 3 understanding the causatives of the crises and 4 suggesting viable solutions to manage the water challenges using named case studies The aim is to improve understanding on the region s water problems and advise scholars and policymakers on priority research areas and action plans to better water management for sustainable development Balancing

Individualism and Collectivism Janet McIntyre-Mills,Norma Romm,Yvonne Corcoran-Nantes,2017-10-03 This book addresses the social and environmental justice challenge to live sustainably and well It considers the consequences of our social economic and environmental policy and governance decisions for this generation and the next The book tests out ways to improve representation accountability and re generation It addresses the need to take into account the ethical implications of policy and governance decisions in the short medium and long term based on testing out the implications for self other and the environment This book recognizes the negative impact that humans have had on the Earth s ecosystem and recommends a less anthropocentric way of looking at policies and governance The chapters discuss the geologic impact that people have had on the globe both positive and negative and brings awareness to the anthropocentric interventions that have influenced life on Earth during the Holocene era Based on these observations the authors discuss original ideas and critical reviews on ways to govern those who interpret the world in terms of human values and experience and to conduct an egalitarian lifestyle These ideas address the growing rise in the size of the ecological footprints of some at the expense of the majority the growth in unsustainable food choices and of displaced people and the need for a new sense of relationship with nature and other animals among other issues The chapters included in Balancing Individualism and Collectivism Social and Environmental Justice encourage readers to challenge the sustainability agenda of the anthropocentric life Proposed solutions to these unsustainable actions include structuralized interventions and volunteerism through encouragement and education with a focus on protecting current and future generations of life through new governmental etiquette and human cognizance

Charcoal, Food, and Water Production in the Tropics: Applying Nexus Thinking to Improve Research and Policy Approaches in Complex Landscapes Tuyeni Heita Mwampamba,Adrian Ghilardi,Rob Bailis,2020-02-04 Editorial Tuyeni H Mwampamba Rob Bailis Adrian Ghilardi Urbanization food and water consumption trends in many tropical countries show that demand for charcoal as a source of cooking energy meat grain and water will rise to proportions that surpass the ability of existing ecosystems to supply these services simultaneously and at desired qualities. Consequently, drastic changes to policy and practice are needed to improve ecosystem potential and/or alter demand trends. Traditional charcoal production in sub-Saharan Africa, South East Asia, and Latin America often competes or co-exists with livestock keeping and agriculture and has a tendency to occur in water-limited woodlands. The co-occurrence of charcoal and food production results in complex landscapes characterized by strong interactions between subsystems managed by multiple sets of actors with potentially competing objectives. These social-ecological systems provide goods and services that are essential to millions of people throughout the global south. Nevertheless, there have been very few detailed studies of such systems, particularly on the individual and combined effects of charcoal crop and livestock production on the hydrological system that maintains them and vice versa. As a result, these multi-use landscapes are typically managed by short-sighted, highly generalized, mono-sectorial policies that ignore important tradeoffs and undercapitalize on synergies. A system-level approach could provide important insights that improve and expand current understanding of this energy-food-water nexus. Tackling urgent and complex problems composed of multiple and interrelated factors lies at the heart of nexus thinking: an approach that examines the inter-relatedness and interdependencies of environmental resources and their transitions and fluxes across spatial scales and between compartments. UNU FLORES 2015 and relies on interdisciplinary research and multi-sector policy teams. It has attracted significant interest from international organizations, the private sector, and governments as a way to develop integrated, equitable solutions that involve inputs from multiple stakeholders. However, this approach is notably absent in the research arena. Identifying appropriate interventions for achieving sustainable charcoal and food production and maintaining the underlying hydrological system on which they depend requires that the systems are considered simultaneously and that their biophysical, social, and political interrelations are well understood. Taking charcoal as the nexus entry point, this Research Topic aims to generate new understanding of charcoal production systems by incorporating agriculture and hydrology into the matrix. We were interested in empirical articles, reviews, meta-analytical articles, and perspective papers that address at least two of the three nexus components and which offer provocative and insightful perspectives into the nexus as a whole. We hope that this Research Topic will 1) facilitate identification of research gaps, policy opportunities, and priorities for the nexus; 2) kick-start the development of a community of researchers and practitioners working on the nexus; and 3) permit the development of a research agenda that explores the nexus globally across multiple study sites.

Towards Sustainable Food Production in Africa Morris Fanadzo, Nothando Dunjana, Hupenyu Allan Mupambwa, Ernest Dube, 2023-07-10. This edited book is focused on Sustainable Development Goal 2.
