relationship between women and the Bible's reception during the early Middle Ages 500-1100 CE in both the Greek East and the Latin West. Essays focus on interactions between women and the Bible through biblical precepts on women and for women, biblical women as the subjects of action or objects of discussion and writings by women that refer to the Bible as a moral authority. The women discussed in the volume range from the well-known including the nuns Kassia in Byzantium and Hrosvita in the West, the aristocrat Dhuoda, author of a moral guide for her son Gisela, the sister of Charlemagne and abbess of Chelles, and her niece Rotrude to those who remain anonymous. Contributions also explore how the Old and New Testaments exercised influence on emerging Islam. Features: Analysis of images of the Virgin Mary as a means of tracing the spread of her cult and feast days from East to West. Exploration of the significance of classical culture for medieval women who composed poems for a Christian audience. Evaluation of art as a means of establishing devotional relationships not necessarily mediated by the voices of preachers or the reading of texts. Book News, 1897. Humour Translation in the Age of Multimedia Margherita Dore, 2020-11-02. This volume seeks to investigate how humour translation has developed since the beginning of the 21st century, focusing in particular on new ways of communication. The authors, drawn from a range of countries, cultures, and academic traditions, address and debate how today's globalised communication media and new technologies are influencing and shaping the translation of humour. Examining both how humour translation exploits new means of communication and how the processes of humour translation may be challenged and enhanced by technologies, the chapters cover theoretical foundations and implications and methodological practices and challenges. They include a description of current research or practice and comments on possible future developments. The contributions interconnect around the issue of humour creation and translation in the 21st century, which can truly be labelled as the age of multimedia. Accessible and engaging, this is essential reading for advanced students and researchers in Translation Studies and Humour Studies.
