Special Educational Needs Michael Farrell, 2004-01-23 This book provides a succinct overview of SEN policy and is likely to be a useful resource for those undertaking accredited courses related to SEN and inclusion SENCO Update The combination of the theoretical and practical aspects of special educational needs makes this book a valuable resource for practitioners and should enable them to develop reflective and insightful practice Michael Shevlin Trinity College Dublin TES Extra Special Needs This is a comprehensive and thorough overview of the Special Educational Needs SEN landscape as it is in the UK today The book is very clearly aimed at specialists in the field and Michael Farrell incorporates developments that are sometimes ignored emotional intelligence for example There is a nice touch in that each chapter concludes with thinking points I could see that the book could make a sound basis for a training course on SEN based around these The book is highly readable though I expect it is more likely to be used as a reference text or as I suggested above as a basis for training However it is used it is invaluable as an up to date assessment of SEN in 2004 and highly recommended to anyone working or planning to work in this field Nurturing Potential Essential reading for every SENCO in fact for everyone involved in special educational needs By examining the background to key areas the book gives teachers managers and advisers the depth of understanding that is necessary to make informed choices about what constitutes the most effective practice Dr Tony Lingard Head of Learning Support Cambourne Science and Community College With its scope and depth of coverage this book provides a useful resource through combining background information theory and practice as well as the tools for further research for both novice and experienced practitioner Ms Lyn Hurst Headteacher This book provides a route map for special education Through examining related disciplines which illuminate the field it considers how special education can be better understood The author views issues in special education within the wider disciplines of history sociology law politics ethics economics medicine and psychology He looks at the national local and school frameworks in which special education operates and shows how provision for pupils with special educational needs is influenced by structures procedures and practices at national local and school levels Features include the ethics of preventing disability lessons history identifying value in sociological perspectives psychological and other Models of teaching aspects of the National Framework aspects of the Local Framework the School SEN Policy the Curriculum and School Organization This book is essential reading for teachers headteachers Special Educational Needs coordinators and all those who have an interest in special education and managing inclusion Third validation compendium report Great Britain: National Audit Office, 2006-12-19 In 2004 the Government announced 110 Public Service Agreement PSA targets for 17 Departments covering the period 2005-08 PSA targets express the priority outcomes that Departments are seeking to achieve nationally and internationally and cover key aspects of the Government's social economic and environmental policy Large sums of public money are devoted to the programmes designed to deliver them This NAO report contains the detailed results of its examination of the data systems

used by six government departments to monitor and report progress against their 2005-08 PSA targets covering a total of 65 data systems. The six Departments are the Cabinet Office, the Department for Culture, Media and Sport, the Department for Education and Skills, the Department for the Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, the Ministry of Defence and HM Treasury. Findings include that 75 per cent of the data systems used are broadly appropriate but less than half of these were fully fit for purpose. Most required some action to strengthen measurement or reporting arrangements. A companion volume HCP 127 I session 2006-07 ISBN 0102944040 is available separately which contains the NAO's summarised findings.

Studies in Theoretical and Applied Statistics Cira Perna, Monica Pratesi, Anne Ruiz-Gazen, 2018-04-03 This book includes a wide selection of the papers presented at the 48th Scientific Meeting of the Italian Statistical Society SIS2016 held in Salerno on 8-10 June 2016. Covering a wide variety of topics ranging from modern data sources and survey design issues to measuring sustainable development, it provides a comprehensive overview of the current Italian scientific research in the fields of open data and big data in public administration and official statistics, survey sampling, ordinal and symbolic data, statistical models and methods for network data, time series forecasting, spatial analysis, environmental statistics, economic and financial data analysis, statistics in the education system and sustainable development. Intended for researchers interested in theoretical and empirical issues, this volume provides interesting starting points for further research.

The Public Understanding of Assessment John Gardner, 2017-10-02 Assessment of educational achievement, whether by traditional examinations or by teachers in schools, attracts considerable public interest, particularly when it is associated with high stakes outcomes such as university entry or selection for employment. When the individual's results do not chime with their or their teachers' expectations, doubts creep in about the process of assessment that has arrived at this result. However, educational assessment is made up of many layers of complexity which are not always clear to the general public, including teachers, students and parents, and which are not easily understood outside of the expert assessment community. These layers may be organized in highly co-dependent relationships that include reliability, validity, human judgment and errors, and the uses and interpretations of the various types of assessment. No one could reasonably argue that the principles and complexities of educational assessment should be core learning in public education, but there is a growing realization that trust in the UK assessment system is under some threat as the media and others sensationalize or politicize any problems that arise each year. This book offers the first comprehensive overview of how the general public is considered to perceive and understand a wide variety of aspects of educational assessment and how this understanding may be improved. This book was originally published as a special issue of the Oxford Review of Education.

Making Every Lesson Count Shaun Allison, Andy Tharby, 2015-06-11 Packed with practical teaching strategies, Making Every Lesson Count bridges the gap between research findings and classroom practice. Evidence Check 1 Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Select Committee on Science and Technology, 2009 This report HCP 44 session 2009 10 ISBN 9780215542663 from the Science and Technology Committee looks at literacy programmes evidence check and concludes that expectations by the Department for Children Schools and Families of the quality of the evidence base for reading programmes are worryingly low It urges the Government to commission randomised controlled trials RCTs The Committee also states it is particularly concerned about the quality of evidence demonstrating cost effectiveness of different programmes and further recommends that the Government reviews its guidelines on RCT design it says even Wikipedia is more thorough and informative The Committee also concludes that the Government's focus on early literacy interventions and phonics based teaching is based on the best available evidence the use of Reading Recovery is based on a lower quality of evidence than the Committee is comfortable with and that the decision to introduce Reading Recovery nationally is not evidence based The Committee further expressed alarm that there was a complete lack of randomised controlled trials using standardised test scores for the Reading Recovery programme in the UK school system before national implementation of the programme

Assessment Policy Reform Tina Isaacs, Iasonas Lamprianou, 2020-05-21 This book highlights the impact of policy and politics on assessment across the globe With contributions from England the Irish Republic Northern Ireland Norway Sweden Switzerland and Wales it explores state led assessment policies and practices that have been the subject of much debate We are experiencing a shift from using assessments especially national tests as measurement instruments designed to produce information to a reliance on tests to influence policy and instruction Once tests become high stakes for students teachers and schools even those that might have been reasonable monitors of educational success can lose dependability and credibility However not all countries assessment policies follow the same model and the contributors explore and analyse a range of different national and supra national assessment policy approaches and perspectives The chapters identify the impetus behind changing assessment policies and practices and analyse ways forward and innovative approaches Readers can draw their own conclusions about which model s can provide the best outcomes for learners surely the most important part of the equation This book was originally published as a special issue of Assessment in Education Principles Policy Practice
