This was the first time during the 1980s that genetic engineering was used to produce a vaccine against a human disease. The gene was inserted into the harmless cowpox virus, known as vaccinia virus, and the vaccine was given to children. The vaccination programme, known as the 'smallpox scare', was a success. The vaccine was given to children and the virus was found to be harmless. The vaccine was given to children and the virus was found to be harmless.
