

Writing a research paper

Introduction

The two first types of papers are considered first of all although the ideas below are applicable to the other types of papers as well.

It is difficult for a young researcher to write and submit his/her paper. S/he is thinking that the research or the manuscript is not good enough for publishing. Perfect papers are never published because there are no perfect paper. Good papers are published. These papers put the scientific discussion in the field forward (Day 2006).

You should not be afraid of rejection. Reviewing of your manuscript gives you invaluable information about the research in your field and about writing research papers. Publishing in valued journals and collections is an inevitable part of your career as a university lecturer.

Let us look at some success criteria in publishing.

1. The paper describes a good research. The research uses current ideas and methods appropriately. It is grounded in theory and adds something to it. Good research is rigorous, systematic and very focused (Day 2006). You should discuss one problem in one paper, although there can be different approaches to the problem in your paper. Large samples of subjects facilitate the acceptance of your manuscript.
2. You answer the question why your paper is important. The importance can be in wider principles, which emerged from your research. You can describe how people can use the findings of your research and how other researchers can develop the work further. Papers on popular topics (gender, collectivism, narcotics, etc.) are easier to publish (Toomela 2003). A good paper arouses the interest of readers.
3. You have been reading the best papers in your research field and you give an overview of the contemporary trends in the field. Your paper will be published if it adds something to the international discussion in the field. You can contribute to the discussion if you know the current state of affairs.
4. The paper is written according to the traditions of scientific writing. Scientists are accustomed to read the papers with traditional elements, structure and style. If you violate these traditions, then your paper is difficult to understand and editors are eager to reject such manuscripts. The most thorough presentation of these traditions is published by the American Psychological Association (Publication manual ... 2003).

Below we will discuss the writing and submitting of manuscripts. However, we begin with selecting the appropriate journal.
