As the climate change impacts become more apparent, the need for infrastructure investments in the transportation sector becomes more acute. The transportation sector is a key component of the infrastructure system and is critical to the economic and social well-being of the nation. The transportation sector is also a major source of greenhouse gas emissions, which contribute to climate change. Therefore, it is essential to invest in infrastructure that is resilient to climate change and that can help reduce greenhouse gas emissions. This report provides a comprehensive overview of the transportation infrastructure system and the challenges it faces in the face of climate change. It also provides recommendations for how to address these challenges and ensure the long-term sustainability of the transportation system.
