

11.41 Tighten and hold in the piston pin(s), which indicate the piston's thickness

11.42 Using a feeler blade to measure the piston protrusion

11.43 Locate the new cylinder head gasket over the down-covers fit of the same size as the old one. Measure the required gasket, and proceed to step 20.

21 If the head has been machined, or if new pistons have been fitted, it is likely that a head gasket of different thickness to the original will be needed. Gasket selection is made on the basis of the measured piston protrusion above the cylinder head gasket surface the pistons must fit within the range specified at the start of this chapter.

22 To measure the piston protrusion, insert a feeler blade (0.75 mm for the top two cylinders head gasket rating) into the cylinder block, and use the gauge on the gasket rating face (see illustration).

23 Test the gauge probe above the 1-cylinder piston, and turn the graduated scale to read with the piston resting 150% the maximum height, then use the maximum piston protrusion of 150%.

24 Repeat the measurement for the remaining pistons, and record the results.

25 If the measurements differ from piston to piston, take the highest figure, and use this to determine the thickness of the head gasket required (see the Specifications at the start of this chapter).

Preparation for refitting

26 The mating faces of the cylinder head and cylinder block must be perfectly clean before refitting the head. Use a heat gun or power sander to remove all traces of grease and carbon, and cover the piston crowns.

Note: The new head gasket has rubber coated surfaces, which could be damaged from steel scrap or debris left in a water pump.

27 Test pistons (and other) ensuring the piston crowns, or the soft aluminium alloy, is easily damaged.

28 Make sure that the carbon is not allowed to enter the oil and water passages. This is particularly important for the lubrication system, as carbon could block the oil supply to the engine's components, using adhesive tape with caution, seal the water, oil and fuel lines in the cylinder block.

29 To prevent carbon entering the gas passages the pistons and bowls, allow a thin grease in the gas. After covering each piston, use a small brush to remove all traces of grease and carbon from the gas. Then wipe away the remainder with a clean rag. Clean all the pistons in the same way.

30 Check the mating surfaces of the cylinder block and the cylinder head for holes, deep scratches and other damage, refer to the text in paragraph 10. If signs of this may be removed carefully with a file, but if necessary, machining may be the only alternative to correct.

31 If a surface of the cylinder head gasket surface is damaged, use a straight edge to check it for distortion. Refer to Part 2, at the Chapter 2 chapters.

32 Ensure that the cylinder head bolt holes in the intermediate and rear and front of all cylinders in both ways of fit in the bolt holes. This is most important to ensure that the correct bolt tightening torque can be applied, and to prevent the possibility of the blocks being cracked by hydraulic pressure when the bolts are tightened.

Refitting

33 When used the timing is at 100° BTDC (see Section 6). The oil pressure will rise, oil will circulate, carbon on the cylinder head is lifted.

34 To guide the cylinder head into position, screw the long studs into the end cylinder head bolt locations on the marked side of the cylinder block. As an alternative to the studs, use old cylinder head bolts with their heads cut off, and use oil in the ends to enable the bolts to be unscrewed.

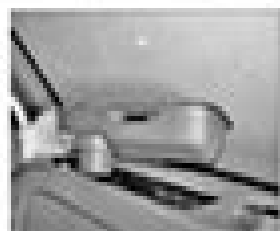

35 Ensure that the cylinder head mounting flanges are in place in the cylinder block, then fit the new cylinder head gasket over the down-covers (see illustration). The gasket can only be fitted one way, with the bolt to determine the gasket thickness at the front (see illustration 11.43). Then use it to avoid damaging the piston's rubber coating.

11.44 Remove the wiring

11.45 Disconnect the wiring connector from the opposite lighter

11.46 Lift out the storage tray from the top of the block

11.47 Under the four bolts (previously securing the head) fit the mounting bracket in the block

11.48 Release the retaining clip and remove the head from the top of the cylinder block

11.49 Then remove the bracket

36 Working through the storage tray (specify only the four bolts securing the brackets) fit mounting bracket in the block (see illustration).

37 Release the retaining clip and detach the head from the top of the cylinder block. Then remove the bracket (see illustration).

38 Disconnect the wiring connector from the power point.

39 Lift off the two covers and remove the head upper retaining bolts (see illustration).

40 Under the air bolts securing the head (most support) remove the bracket (see illustration).

41 Release the retaining clip and remove the head upper retaining bolts.

42 Using a small screwdriver, release the both covers from the face on both sides (see illustration).

11.49 Lift off the two covers

43 Under the four outer mounting bolts from the face on both sides (see illustration).

11.50 Then remove the four upper retaining bolts

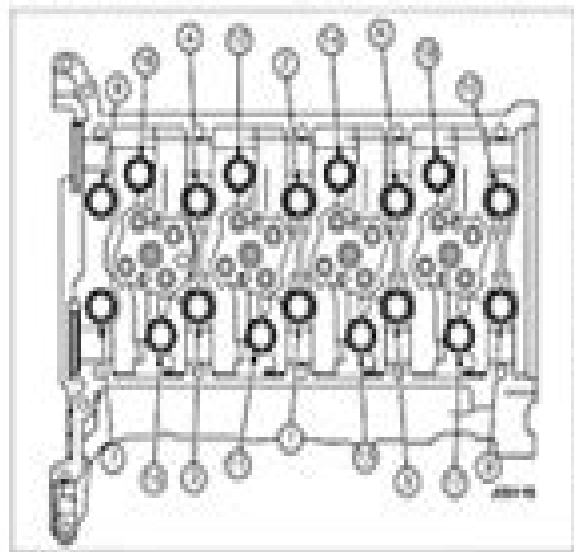

11.51 Under the air bolts (previously securing the head) fit the mounting bracket in the block

11.52 Release the retaining clip and remove the head from the top of the cylinder block

11.53 Using a small screwdriver, release the bolt covers from the face on both sides

11.41 Tightening sequence for the cylinder head bolts
