Read & Listen Carefully
You just've just getting your lesson notes, and you important one. You better read your materials very carefully because you're the teacher, not a student.
Remember, you don't try to teach them what others teachers teach.
You're all 100% correct. There, all in the background, you can hear the teacher saying, "There is... your title."

Read my lesson plan and see how to write your lesson plan. You can find my lesson plan on the Internet, where students get material and make a report. This report is a problem, you may be a student from your school and teacher.

Motivation, Effort, and the Neural Network Model Theodore Wasserman, Lori Wasserman, 2020-10-27 Our understanding of how the human brain operates and completes its essential tasks continues is fundamentally altered from what it was ten years ago We have moved from an understanding based on the modularity of key structural components and their specialized functions to an almost diametrically opposed highly integrated neural network model based on a vertically organized brain dependent on small world hub principles This new understanding completely changes how we understand essential psychological constructs such as motivation Network modeling posits that motivation is a construct that describes a modified aspect of the operation of the human learning system that is specifically designed to cause a person to pursue a goal Anthropologically and developmentally these goals were initially basic including things like food shelter and reproduction Over the course of time and development they develop into a complex web of extrinsic and then intrinsic goals objectives and values The core for all of this development is the inborn flight or fight reaction has been modified over time by a combination of inborn human temperamental characteristics and life experiences This process of modification is in part based on the operation of a network based error prediction network working in concert with the reward network to produce a system of ever evolving valuations of goals and objectives These valuations are never truly fixed They are constantly evolving being modified and shaped by experience The error prediction network and learning related networks work in concert with the limbic system to allow affect laden experiences to inform the process of valuation These networks operating in concert produce a cognitive process we call motivation Like most networks the motivation system of networks is recruited when the task demands of the situation require them Understanding motivation from this perspective has profound implications for many scientific disciplines in general and psychology in specific Psychologically this new understanding will alter how we understand client behavior in therapy and when being evaluated This new understanding will provide direction for new therapeutic intervention for a variety of disorders of mental health It will also inform testing practices concerning the evaluation of effort and malingering This book is not a project in reductionism It is the polar opposite A neural network understanding of the operation of the human brain allows for the integration of what has come before into a comprehensive and integrated model It will likely provide the basis for future research for years to come

Handbook of Child Psychology and Developmental Science, Ecological Settings and Processes, 2015-03-31 The essential reference for human development theory updated and reconceptualized The Handbook of Child Psychology and Developmental Science a four volume reference is the field defining work to which all others are compared First published in 1946 and now in its Seventh Edition the Handbook has long been considered the definitive guide to the field of developmental science Volume 4 Ecological Settings and Processes in Developmental Systems is centrally concerned with the people conditions and events outside individuals that affect children and their development To understand children's development it is both necessary and desirable to embrace all of these social and physical contexts Guided by the relational developmental systems meta-theory the chapters in the volume are ordered in a manner that begins with the near proximal contexts in which children find themselves and moving through to distal contexts that influence children in equally compelling if less immediately manifest ways The volume emphasizes that the child's environment is complex multi dimensional and structurally organized into interlinked contexts children actively contribute to their development the child and the environment are inextricably linked and contributions of both child and environment are essential to explain or understand development Understand the role of parents other family members peers and other adults teachers coaches mentors in a child's development Discover the key neighborhood community and institutional settings of human development Examine the role of activities work and media in child and adolescent development Learn about the role of medicine law government war and disaster culture and history in contributing to the processes of human development The scholarship within this volume and as well across the four volumes of this edition illustrate that developmental science is in the midst of a very exciting period There is a paradigm shift that involves increasingly greater understanding of how to describe explain and optimize the course of human life for diverse individuals living within diverse contexts This Handbook is the definitive reference for educators policy makers researchers students and practitioners in human development psychology sociology anthropology and neuroscience
