Houpt,Cheng-Ta Yang,James T. Townsend,2017-01-18 To deal with the abundant amount of information in the environment in order to achieve our goals human beings adopt a strategy to accumulate some information and filter out other information to ultimately make decisions Since the development of cognitive science in the 1960s researchers have been interested in understanding how human beings process and accumulate information for decision making Researchers have conducted extensive behavioral studies and applied a wide range of modeling tools to study human behavior in simple detection tasks and two choice decision tasks e g discrimination classification In general researchers often assume that the manner in which information is processed for decision making is invariant across individuals given a particular experimental context Independent variables including speed accuracy instructions stimulus properties i e intensity and characteristics of the participants i e aging cognitive ability are assumed to affect the parameters in a model i e speed of information accumulation response bias but not the way that participants process information e g the order of information processing Given these assumptions much modeling has been accomplished based on the grouped data rather than the individual data However a growing number of studies have demonstrated that there were individual differences in the perceptual decision process In the same task context different groups of the participants may process information in different manners The capacity and architecture of the decision mechanism were found to vary across individuals implying that humans decision strategies can vary depending on the context to maximize their performance In this special issue we focused on a particular subset of cognitive models particularly accumulator models multinomial processing trees and systems factorial technology SFT as applied to perceptual decision making The motivation for the focus on perceptual decision making is threefold Empirical studies of perception have grown out of a history of making a large number of observations for each individual so as to achieve precise estimates of each individual s performance This type of data rather than a small number of observations per individual is most amenable to achieving precision in individual level and group level cognitive modeling Second the interaction between the acquisition of perceptual information and the decisions based on that information to the extent that those processes are distinguishable offers rich data for scientific exploration Finally there is an increasing interest in the practical application of individual variation in perceptual ability whether to inform perceptual training and expertise or to guide personnel decisions Although these practical applications are beyond the scope of this issue we hope that the research presented herein may serve as the foundation for future endeavors in that domain   Policy and Practice in Science Education for the Gifted Manabu

Sumida,Keith Taber,2017-03-16 Gifted education has come to be regarded as a key national programme in many coutnries and gifted education in science disciplines is now being recognised to be of major importance for economic and technological development Despite these initiatives and developments internationally there are very few discussions on gifted education in science drawing upon practices and experiences in different national contexts In support of an international dialogue between researchers and practitioners often working within isolated traditions this book offers information on key influential approaches to science education for gifted learners and surveys current policy and practice from a diverse range of educational contexts The volume offers an informative introduction for those new to studying gifted science education as well as supporting the development of the field by offering examples of critical thinking about key issues and accounts of the influences at work within education systems and the practical complexities of providing science education for the gifted The contributions draw upon a variety of research approaches to offer insights into the constraints and affordancxes of working within particular policy contexts and the strengths and challenges inherent in different approaches to practice Chapters include Teaching science to the gifted in English state schools locating a compromised gifted talented policy within its systemic context Models of education for science talented adolescents in the United States Past present and likely future trends Navigating the shifting terrain between policy and practice for gifted learners in Tanzania Science education for female indigenous gifted students in the Mexican context Gifted Science Education in the Context of Japanese Standardization This book will appeal to scholars practitioners and policy makers who are in the field of gifted science education   Modern Mathematics Dirk De Bock,2023-03-08 The international New Math developments between about 1950 through 1980 are regarded by many mathematics educators and education historians as the most historically important development in curricula of the twentieth century It attracted the attention of local and international politicians of teachers and of parents and influenced the teaching and learning of mathematics at all levels kindergarten to college graduate in many nations After garnering much initial support it began to attract criticism But as Bill Jacob and the late Jerry Becker show in Chapter 17 some of the effects became entrenched This volume edited by Professor Dirk De Bock of Belgium provides an outstanding overview of the New Math modern mathematics movement Chapter authors provide exceptionally high quality analyses of the rise of the movement and of subsequent developments within a range of nations The first few chapters show how the initial leadership came from mathematicians in European nations and in the United States of America The background leaders in Europe were Caleb Gattegno and members of a mysterious group of mainly French pure mathematicians who since the 1930s had published under the name of a fictitious Nicolas Bourbaki In the United States there emerged during the 1950s various attempts to improve U S mathematics curricula and teaching especially in secondary schools and colleges This side of the story climaxed in 1957 when the Soviet Union succeeded in launching Sputnik the first satellite Undoubtedly this is a landmark publication in education The foreword was written by Professor Bob Moon one of a few other scholars to have written on the New Math from an international perspective The final epilogue chapter by Professor Geert Vanpaemel a historian draws together the overall thrust of the volume and makes links with the general history of curriculum development especially in science education including recent globalization trends   Advanced Concepts for Intelligent Vision Systems Jacques Blanc-Talon,David Helbert,Wilfried Philips,Dan Popescu,Paul Scheunders,2018-09-24 This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 19th International Conference on Advanced Concepts for Intelligent Vision Systems ACIVS 2018 held in Poitiers France in September 2018 The 52 full papers presented in this volume were carefully reviewed and selected from 91 submissions They were organized in topical sections named video analysis segmentation and classification remote sending biometrics deep learning coding and compression and image restauration and reconstruction   Computer Vision Jinfeng Yang,Qinghua Hu,Ming-Ming Cheng,Liang Wang,Qingshan Liu,Xiang Bai,Deyu Meng,2017-11-29 This three volume set CCIS 771 772 773 constitutes the refereed proceedings of the CCF Chinese Conference on Computer Vision CCCV 2017 held in Tianjin China in October 2017 The total of 174 revised full papers presented in three volumes were carefully reviewed and selected from 465 submissions The papers are organized in the following topical sections biological vision inspired visual method biomedical image analysis computer vision applications deep neural network face and posture analysis image and video retrieval image color and texture image composition image quality assessment and analysis image restoration image segmentation and classification image based modeling object detection and classification object identification photography and video robot vision shape representation and matching statistical methods and learning video analysis and event recognition visual salient detection   Business Intelligence and Information Technology Aboul Ella Hassanien,Yaoqun Xu,Zhijie Zhao,Sabah Mohammed,Zhipeng Fan,2021-12-15 This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 2021 International Conference on Business Intelligence and Information Technology BIIT 2021 held in Harbin China during December 18 20 2021 BIIT 2021 is organized by the School of Computer and Information Engineering Harbin University of Commerce and supported by Scientific Research Group in Egypt SRGE Egypt The papers cover current research in electronic commerce technology and application business intelligence and decision making digital economy accounting informatization intelligent information processing image processing and multimedia technology signal detection and processing communication engineering and technology information security automatic control technique data mining software development and design blockchain technology big data technology artificial intelligence technology   Similarity Search and Applications Laurent Amsaleg,Michael E.
