

How to Write a Research Analysis

1 Introduce the article.

State the article's title and author and outline its main point. At the end of the introduction, present your thesis statement.

2 Summarize the article.

Summarize the article's purpose, research methods, findings, and the authors' conclusions. Be brief.

3 Write your research analysis.

Analyze each section of the research article: introduction (with a focus on the research purpose), methods, results, and discussion.

4 Conclude your analysis.

Give your overall evaluation of the article. Suggest future research directions or state the article's relevance and contributions.

5 Revise and proofread.

Check your research analysis paper for mistakes, logical inconsistencies, missing or redundant details, and citations.

Writing against the Curriculum Randi Gray Kristensen, Ryan M. Claycomb, 2009-11-05 Writing against the Curriculum responds to the growing popularity of Writing Across the Curriculum WAC and Writing in the Disciplines WID programs in universities and colleges across the United States Many of these schools employ both an Introduction to Writing course and a subsequent selection of writing intensive courses housed within academic departments thus simultaneously offering opportunities to subvert disciplinary knowledge production in the earlier course even as they reaffirm those divisions in their later requirements Written by administrators faculty and librarians at public and private institutions who teach traditional and online introductory and advanced writing classes the essays in Writing against the Curriculum argue that these introductory composition classrooms make excellent spaces to question disciplinarity through the study of rhetoric with an emphasis on critical thinking and curricular flexibility before students experience disciplinary enforcement most intensely in the advanced courses Thus this collection intervenes in current discourses of theory and practice in the related fields of composition and cultural studies because simultaneous attention to both fields enables both the activist enactment of cultural studies theoretical ambitions and the interrogation of the theoretical and political implications of composition practices
