The Restaurant Manager's Handbook Douglas Robert Brown, 2003 Accompanying CD ROM contains copies of all forms contained within the text Data Book, Operating Banks and Branches ,1983 Adapting for Inertia Grant Douglas, 2023-10-31 Despite much learning and research over many decades large ICT software projects have continued to experience poor outcomes or fallen short of original expectations some spectacularly so This is the case in the Australian and New Zealand public sectors even though these projects operate within historically developed institutional frameworks that provide the rules guidelines and controls and aim to consistently improve outcomes Something is amiss In Adapting for Inertia Grant Douglas questions the effectiveness of these institutional frameworks in governing large ICT software projects in the Australian and New Zealand public sectors He also gauges the perspectives of a large number of actors in projects in both sectors and examines two case studies in detail The main narrative to emerge is that the institutional frameworks are in a state of inertia they are failing to adapt owing to various institutional factors all of which have public policy implications Sadly Douglas finds this inertia is likely to continue If there is difficulty in changing the capacity to govern he proposes policymakers should look to change the nature of what is to be governed Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications ,1998 The Tower Law Sourcebook John F. Clark, 2003 Etton Francis Pryor, 2014-02-15 The Neolithic causewayed enclosure at Etton cut into a Pleistocene gravel river terrace occupied a floodplain island within a relict stream meander in the Welland Valley Maxey Cambridgeshire Regular flooding laid down layers of clay alluvium mainly in Iron Age and later times preserving a palaeosol and protecting the site from modern plough damage The causewayed enclosure small by British standards comprised a single squashed oval shaped ditch Excavations revealed c 80% of the interior and most date the construction and use to the fourth millennium cal BC that is early in the tradition of British causewayed enclosures Most of the excavated features are Early Neolithic Late Neolithic and earlier Bronze Age features were associated with the ditch of a cursus which traversed the enclosure diagonally Causeways entered the enclosure on the north which featured a substantial timber gateway east west and possibly the south which could not be examined Through the life of the site additional features were built and aligned with care a north south dividing fence aligned with the north gateway in Phase 1 and numerous ritual pits back filled with pottery often deliberately smashed flint and animal bones These pits may have represented individual people and the contents allude to the person's skills achievements or social position The nearest ditch segment probably represented an individual's family or kin group The inhabitants were careful not to damage earlier deposits when digging new pits and it was thus possible to define an evolving tradition of carefully structured ritual deposits Objects such as complete pots or skulls were also placed close to causeways within the buttends of individual ditch segments In Phase 2 Late Neolithic such deposits were more sporadic but ritual continued to dominate Most of the pottery from the pits is a regional variant of the Hurst Fen tradition Fengate style wares also feature prominently and flintwork imported polished stone axes and other stone objects were also deposited The western arc of the enclosure ditch produced some 5000 pieces of worked wood most of which derived from coppice
