American & European Practices, 1990 Tailings Management Handbook Kimberly Finke Morrison, 2022-02-01 As long as we have mining and mineral processing tailings and the responsible management thereof will remain at the forefront with a company's environmental social and governance ESG performance in part a reflection of how well tailings risks are being managed The Global Industry Standard on Tailings Management GISTM was published in August 2020 aiming to prevent catastrophic failure of tailings facilities by providing operators with specified measures and approaches throughout the mine life cycle taking into account multiple stakeholder perspectives In 2021 the International Council on Mining Metals ICMM published the Tailings Management Good Practice Guide intended to support safe responsible management of tailings across the global mining industry providing guidance on good governance and engineering practices to support continual improvement in tailings storage facility TSF management and help foster and strengthen the safety culture of mining companies The Tailings Management Handbook is important and timely because there is no other comprehensive resource rooted in these new fundamentals and global principles for tailings management Tailings management requires interdisciplinary and cross functional understanding and support which is apparent throughout this handbook Dive into the wealth of information contributed by more than 100 world renowned experts beautifully crafted into a full color handbook that focuses on the basics life cycle planning site and tailings characterization TSF design and construction as well as systems and operations of TSFs The inclusion of 42 case studies is an added plus with real world successes and lessons learned Forest Carbon Practices and Low Carbon Development in China Zhi Lu, Xiaoquan Zhang, Jian Ma, Caifu Tang, 2019-05-02 This is the first book illustrating China's forest carbon projects It includes an analysis of the policy and future development trends of China's forest carbon market and showcases the country's most representative forest carbon projects Accordingly it offers a valuable resource for all policymakers and researchers interested in forest carbon as well as project developers and engineers involved in forest carbon projects Environmental Health Perspectives, 1993

Advances in the Geological Storage of Carbon Dioxide S. Lombardi, L.K. Altunina, S.E. Beaubien, 2006-01-13 As is now generally accepted mankind's burning of fossil fuels has resulted in the mass transfer of greenhouse gases to the atmosphere a modification of the delicately balanced global carbon cycle and a measurable change in world wide temperatures and climate Although not the most powerful greenhouse gas carbon dioxide CO₂ drives climate change due to the enormous volumes of this gas pumped into the atmosphere every day Produced in almost equal parts by the transportation industrial and energy generating sectors atmospheric CO₂ concentrations have increased by about 50% over the last 300 years and according to some sources are predicted to increase by up to 200% over pre industrial levels during the next 100 years If we are to reverse this trend in order to prevent significant environmental change in the future action must be taken immediately While reduced use of fossil fuels through conservation increased efficiency and expanded use of renewable energy sources must be our ultimate goal short to medium term solutions are needed which can make an impact today Various types of CO₂ storage techniques have been proposed to fill this need with the injection of this gas into deep geological reservoirs being one of the most promising For example this approach has the potential to become a closed loop system whereby underground energy resources are brought to surface their energy extracted via burning or hydrogen extraction and the resulting by products returned to the subsurface

Rewilding in Practice Ian Convery, Steve Carver, Monica T. Engel, Sally Hawkins, Rene Beyers, Yue Cao, 2025-03-03 Rewilding is a long term and large scale process which works to restore degraded ecosystems or social ecological systems to the point that they are resilient and self sustaining and therefore requiring little in terms of conservation management Rewilding practice focuses on re establishing ecological processes including trophic levels that were lost mainly due to anthropogenic disturbance It also aims to affect a paradigm shift in human nature relationships with intentions to better understand the interdependencies between humans and nature so that people can appreciate and accommodate nature in their landscapes and make more informed and sustainable decisions about how we live In this sense rewilding has real transformational potential

Climate Change Adaptation Manual Andrea Prutsch, Torsten Grothmann, Sabine McCallum, Inke Schauser, Rob Swart, 2014-02-24 Due to the lack of success in climate change mitigation efforts the importance of adaptation is becoming more and more apparent and is now one of the main imperatives of international research and action. However, research on adaptation is mostly not directly applicable to adaptation policy or practice, leaving a gap between scientific results and practical advice for decision makers and planners. This book seeks to address this problem and bridge the gap and should provide readers with practical and applicable information on climate change adaptation. Following an introduction, the book is organised into four main sections, each reflecting an essential component in the adaptation process. Climate change adaptation is an emerging subject area and has gained increased political and academic attention within the last decade. Whereas most books in the field focus on adaptation in developing countries, this volume provides an examination of predominantly European policy and offers interdisciplinary insight into cutting edge knowledge and lessons learnt in a relatively new field of implementation.

Good practices for integrating gender equality and women's empowerment in climate-smart agriculture programmes Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2019-05-31. This guidance, entitled Integrating Gender Equality and Women's Empowerment in CSA Programs, focuses on a set of agricultural practices to be implemented by small scale food producers in developing countries. The purpose of this document is to provide agriculture development practitioners and policy makers globally with guidance, tools and examples of successful integration of gender equality and women's empowerment (GEWE) into climate smart agriculture (CSA) work by demonstrating the necessity and benefits of incorporating a GEWE approach in CSA work and presenting tested strategies for enhancing the engagement of women and particularly vulnerable groups in CSA work. With a view towards accelerating the impacts of country programs, FAO and CARE have partnered to develop this guidance to help policy makers and practitioners meet the ambitious goals of the SDGs and the 2030 Agenda.

Evidence-Based Practices in Mental Health Care American Psychiatric Association, 2008-05-20. As the first attempt to synthesize the movement toward widespread implementation of evidence based mental health practices, this groundbreaking collection articulates the basic tenets of evidence based medicine and shows how practices proven effective by clinical services research could improve the lives of many people. Intended to stimulate much needed public discussion, these remarkable contributions cover both general issues such as implementing practices in routine mental health settings, including strategies for disseminating evidence based practices to staff members. Ensuring that efforts to implement such practices are informed by the knowledge and experience of administrators, clinicians, patients and advocates. Integrating evidence based practices with the recovery model and focusing on guidelines and algorithms for pharmacologic treatment of people with severe mental illness. Identifying the policy implications of the movement, particularly in public sector settings and describing eight courses of action for addressing the gap between science and practice and specific practices such as describing critical components of practices for which substantial evidence exists, such as supported employment, dual diagnosis services and assertive community treatment. Developing an evidence base for particular populations such as children and adolescents and geriatric patients and for clinical subgroups such as patients with severe mental illness and posttraumatic stress disorder and implementing a range of practices for each population Debate in public forums is critical to explaining the benefits of evidence based care and allaying the fears of patients practitioners administrators policy makers and vested interest groups that evidence based care excludes them from the decision making process Patients need to know that their individual characteristics preferences and autonomy are highly valued and won't be discounted by rigid adherence to the particular treatments Practitioners need to know about the credibility of the evidence base and about new techniques and responsibilities and to understand that their favorite practices won't necessarily be excluded during initial attempts to implement evidence based practices

Administrators and policy makers need to know about financing organizing implementing and sustaining new practices Finally vested interest groups need to know that the introduction of evidence based practices doesn't mean that what they do now is ineffective This unique and densely informative volume will be welcomed by mental health care professionals and by lawmakers planners administrators and others who are charged with the responsibility of providing effective care to vulnerable populations
