Teaching Science in Secondary Schools Sandra Amos, Richard Boohan, 2013-10-11 A companion to Aspects of Teaching Secondary Science the first section of this reader provides an overview of the key issues discussing the nature of science and its role in the school curriculum The second section goes on to examine critically the ways in which science is reflected in the school curriculum while the third section discusses recent curriculum initiatives and developments Turning the focus from what is taught on to who is taught section four shows that students are very much active learners in the classroom making sense of their experiences and constructing their own meanings The final section covers the role of research in science education giving examples of research papers and considering how productive collaboration between teachers and researchers can impact upon the effectiveness of classroom practice

Introducing CAL Keith Hudson, 2013-11-11 It is often the case perhaps more often than not that new ideas arrive long before there is the means to clothe and deliver them We can think of Leonardo da Vinci's drawings of helicopters and submarines among many other examples Computer Assisted Learning CAL is an example of an idea which has had a particularly long gestation As I will illustrate early in the book the principles of CAL were really first discovered by Socrates As a formal method of teaching the Socratic method disappeared for over two millennia until the 1950s It was then revived in the form of Programmed Learning PL which resulted from the researches of B F Skinner at Harvard University Even then PL was premature In the 1950s and

60s methods were devised such as teaching machines and various sorts of PL text books and there was a mushrooming of PL publishing at that time For a complex of reason economic logistical and technical PL also largely disappeared from the mid 60s although it continued in a few specialized areas of teaching and industrial training However during the same period PL quietly transformed itself into CAL But the computerized form was not capable of mass dissemination until recently because personal microcomputers did not have sufficient internal memory sizes That situation has now changed very dramatically and 128K microcomputers are becoming cheap and widely available Cheap memory chips of 256K and 1024K cannot be far away either
