

Building the JavaScript Library

The first step in building the JavaScript library is to create a new file named `library.js` in the `src` directory. This file will contain the code for the library, which will be used by the application.

Next, we need to define the `Library` constructor function.

The `Library` constructor function will take a single argument, the `name` of the library.

The `Library` constructor function will create a new object with the following properties:

- `name`: The name of the library.
- `version`: The version of the library.
- `author`: The author of the library.
- `description`: The description of the library.
- `license`: The license of the library.
- `url`: The URL of the library.
- `email`: The email address of the author.
- `phone`: The phone number of the author.
- `address`: The address of the author.

Example

The following code shows an example of how to use the `Library` constructor function to create a new library object.

var lib = new Library('My Library', '1.0.0', 'John Doe', 'A library for managing books', 'MIT License', 'http://example.com', 'john.doe@example.com', '1234567890', '1234 Main St, New York, NY 10001');
```

The `lib` object will have the following properties:

lib.name // 'My Library'
lib.version // '1.0.0'
lib.author // 'John Doe'
lib.description // 'A library for managing books'
lib.license // 'MIT License'
lib.url // 'http://example.com'
lib.email // 'john.doe@example.com'
lib.phone // '1234567890'
lib.address // '1234 Main St, New York, NY 10001'

Conclusion

In this article, we have seen how to build a JavaScript library. We have created a new file named `library.js` in the `src` directory. We have defined the `Library` constructor function. We have created a new library object using the `Library` constructor function.
