Carrying Capacity

- In this case
- In the case of the upper population, the carrying capacity is determined by the amount of food available

Introduction: Population Density is the number of individuals in a population per unit of space. Factors limiting growth and affecting carrying capacity are the density-dependent or density factor. These limiting factors are divided into density-dependent limiting factors.

Question: How does a density-dependent limiting factor affect carrying capacity?

1. Challenge question: What do you think would happen if a density-dependent limiting factor changed?

Population would increase

2. Challenge question: A drought that is both high in spring months, leaving less food available for rabbits, than in the fall, affects the environment's carrying capacity.

Population will increase from which will affect the carrying capacity in spring months.

3. Challenge question: How do you think the carrying capacity will change? Students: will be able to use the spring population data.

4. Challenge question: How do you think the amount of food available in the spring will affect how many individuals the environment can support?

The higher the amount of food available in the spring, the higher the carrying capacity will be.

5. Challenge question: Why do you think limiting a population's growth decreases the carrying capacity?

The carrying capacity of the environment will decrease.

6. Challenge question: What do you think would happen if another density-dependent limiting factor changed?
