Green Paper On Defence Department Of:

House of Commons - Defence Committee: Towards the Next Defence and Security Review: Part One - HC 197 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Defence Committee,2014-01-07 In this report the Defence Committee argues that the capabilities of HM Forces should be determined not by budgetary constraints but by a fully developed strategy which defines the position in the world that the UK wants to adopt The report urges the government to produce a comprehensive national security strategy in the first place and let that document along with the Comprehensive Spending Review CSR direct the next Strategic Defence and Security Review SDSR The allocation of resources will be based on national spending priorities set to meet the nation s security needs There is a danger of defence becoming a matter of discretionary spending Decisions about the expeditionary capability that the UK retains must be based on proper strategic decision making about the UK s place in the world and not simply flow from the horse trading that surrounds the CSR process The report points to a lack of understanding amongst the public of why we have Armed Forces General sympathy and support for the Armed Forces must not obscure a hard headed understanding of what they are for The process of producing the next Defence and Security Review is the opportunity to engage the public in understanding the future of the Armed Forces The Committee has very real concerns about the focus that will be given to the number of asymmetric security threats to the UK such as from terrorism or cyber attack The Government must think more strategically about the resilience of the country s critical infrastructure and recovery following an attack

Canada and Ballistic Missile Defence, 1954-2009 James G. Fergusson, 2011-01-01 Since the mid 1950s successive Canadian governments have responded to US ballistic missile defence initiatives with fear and uncertainty Officials have endlessly debated the implications at home and abroad of participation Drawing on previously classified government documents and interviews with senior officials James Fergusson offers the first full account of Canada's unsure response to US initiatives He reveals that factors such as weak leadership and a tendency to place uncertain and ill defined notions of international peace and security before national defence have resulted in indecision In the end policy makers have failed to transform the ballistic missile defence issue into an opportunity to define Canada's strategic interests at home and on the world stage

The European Union in the Security of Europe Steve Marsh, Wyn Rees, 2012-03-12 This book examines the European Union's contribution to providing security in Europe amidst an increasingly complex and challenging environment In this new and comprehensive guide to the EU's role in security since the end of the Cold War the authors offer an explanation of EU internal and external security regimes and argue that the Union has become an important exporter of security within its region However the Union's rhetorical ambitions and commitments continue to outstrip its capabilities and it lacks both a common conceptualisation of security and a meaningful shared strategic culture Drawing extensively on primary sources the book examines the Union's relations with the US and Russia in a time of shifting geostrategic calculations and priorities With the EU capacity for enlargement slowing this text presents a detailed assessment of EU security policies towards Central Europe the Mediterranean the Western Balkans Eastern Europe and South Caucasus European Union Security will be of interest to students and scholars of the EU security studies and international relations
