Every reasonably aware person of our time is aware of the obvious fact that art can no longer be justified as a superior activity, or even as a compensatory activity to which one might honorably devote oneself. The reason for this deterioration is clearly the emergence of productive forces that necessitate other production relations and a new practice of life. In the civil-war phase we are engaged in, and in close connection with the orientation we are discovering for certain superior activities to come, we believe that all known means of expression are going to converge in a general movement of propaganda that must encompass all the perpetually interacting aspects of social reality.

There are several conflicting opinions about the forms and even the very nature of educative propaganda, opinions that generally reflect one or another currently fashionable variety of reformist politics. Suffice it to say that in our view the premises for revolution, on the cultural as well as the strictly political level, are not only ripe, they have begun to rot. It is not just returning to the past which is reactionary, even "modern" cultural objectives are ultimately reactionary since they depend on ideological formulations of a past society that has prolonged its death agony to the present. The only historically justified tactic is extremist innovation.

The literary and artistic heritage of humanity should be used for partisan propaganda purposes. It is, of course, necessary to go beyond any idea of mere scandal. Since opposition to the bourgeois notion of art and artistic genius has become pretty much old hat, [Marcel Duchamp's] drawing of a mustache on the Mona Lisa is no more interesting than the original version of that painting. We must now push this process to the point of negating the negation. Bertolt Brecht, revealing in a recent interview in France-Observateur that he makes cuts in the classics of the theater in order to make the performances more educative, is much closer than Duchamp to the revolutionary orientation we are calling for. We must note, however, that in Brecht's case these salutary alterations are narrowly limited by his unfortunate respect for culture as defined by the ruling class — that same respect, taught in the newspapers of the workers parties as well as in the primary schools of the bourgeoisie, which leads even the reddest worker districts of Paris always to prefer The Cid over [Brecht's] Mother Courage.

It is in fact necessary to eliminate all remnants of the notion of personal property in this area. The appearance of new necessities outmodes previous "inspired"

Guide To Detournement:

Detournement as Pedagogical Praxis James Trier, 2014-09-11 The Situationist International SI was a Paris based artistic and political avant garde group that formed in 1957 went through three distinct phases during its existence and dissolved in 1972 In 1967 SI leader Guy Debord published his book The Society of the Spectacle which presents his theory of how the Spectacle i e the Capitalist system in its totality works endlessly though not always successfully to transform people into spectators whose sole purposes are to consume commodities and to live de politicized passive isolated and contemplative lives To challenge and subvert the Spectacle Debord and his SI associates theorized and practiced the anti spectacular critical art they called detournement which entails reusing existing artistic and mass produced elements to create new combinations or ensembles As Debord wrote in 1956 detournement has the potential to be a powerful cultural weapon in the service of real class struggle In this edited book the authors contribute chapters about how they created their own detournements and used them as central audio visual texts in critical projects that they designed and carried out in a variety of pedagogical situations Most of the projects involved preservice teachers in teacher education courses and the anti spectacular purposes include challenging Hollywood s problematic representations of Native Americans subverting the racist stereotypes of Latin s in a popular children s book and critiquing the neoliberal agenda of the charter school movement This book offers readers detailed accounts of pedagogical projects that can serve as examples of the critical possibilities of detournement

Guy Debord's Politics of Communication Edward John Matthews, 2023-11-02 Drawing on published works as well as personal correspondences written between 1948 1994 this book conceptualizes Guy Debord s politics of communication and how it sought to undermine the hierarchical monological language of the spectacle Matthews traces Debord s search for critical communication strategies that could subvert the reified language of manufacturing from the philosopher s early activities in anti aesthetic terrorism e g the neo poem metagraphics and d tournement to advocating forms of horizontal communication between autonomous revolutionary groups or individuals using native language Matthews ultimately finds that to critique the language of the spectacle Debord relied on the power of the negative to speak the ironic language of contradiction of critical theory and of the incommunicable

Quotational Practices Patrick Greaney, 2014-03-01 Literature and art have always depended on imitation and in the past few decades quotation and appropriation have become dominant aesthetic practices But critical methods have not kept pace with this development Patrick Greaney reopens the debate about quotation and appropriation shifting away from na ve claims about the death of the author In interpretations of art and literature from the 1960s to the present Quotational Practices shows how artists and writers use quotation not to undermine authorship and originality but to answer questions at the heart of twentieth century philosophies of history Greaney argues that quotation is a technique employed by art and philosophy to build ties to the past and to possible futures By exploring quotation s links to gender identity and history he offers new approaches to works by some of the most influential modern and contemporary artists writers and philosophers including Walter Benjamin Guy Debord Michel Foucault Marcel Broodthaers Glenn Ligon Sharon Hayes and Vanessa Place Ultimately Quotational Practices reveals innovative perspectives on canonical philosophical texts as well as art and literature in a wide range of genres and mediums from concrete poetry and the artist's book to performance painting and video art The Situationist

Uncreative Writing Kenneth Goldsmith, 2011-08-16 Can techniques traditionally thought to be outside the scope of literature including word processing databasing identity ciphering and intensive programming inspire the reinvention of writing The Internet and the digital environment present writers with new challenges and opportunities to reconceive creativity authorship and their relationship to language Confronted with an unprecedented amount of texts and language writers have the opportunity to move beyond the creation of new texts and manage parse appropriate and reconstruct those that already exist In addition to explaining his concept of uncreative writing which is also the name of his popular course at the University of Pennsylvania Goldsmith reads the work of writers who have taken up this challenge Examining a wide range of texts and techniques including the use of Google searches to create poetry the appropriation of courtroom testimony and the possibility of robo poetics Goldsmith joins this recent work to practices that date back to the early twentieth century Writers and artists such as Walter Benjamin Gertrude Stein James Joyce and Andy Warhol embodied an ethos in which the construction or conception of a text was just as important as the resultant text itself By extending this tradition into the digital realm uncreative writing offers new ways of thinking about identity and the making of meaning

Death and the City in Premodern Europe Martin Christ, Carmen González Gutiérrez, 2024-10-18 Through a range of case studies this book traces how death shaped cities and vice versa It argues that by focusing on death and the city we can open up new avenues of research into religious political and cultural change Dying in a city was significantly different from dying in a village or the countryside Cities and towns were centres of commerce and learning shaping discourses on death The importance of urban centres meant that events had a large audience there for example when people were executed Urban diversity led to a wide variety of deathways which also had to be regulated by urban magistrates The placement of dead bodies and the urban arrangement of cemeteries were related to the high population density in towns urban hygiene and religious changes such as the Reformation The fact that many cities were seats of power had a direct impact on the design of necropolises and the performance of funerary rituals It was also in urban centres that religious ethnic and cultural diversity tended to be more pronounced leading to compromise and conflict when it came to burials and commemoration Considering death and the city can therefore help us understand much broader processes of dying urbanity and change over time This book is essential reading for all students and academics of death in the premodern period The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Mortality

No Gods, No Masters, No Peripheries Raymond Craib, Barry Maxwell, 2015-07-01 Was anarchism in areas outside of Europe an import and a script to be mimicked Was it perpetually at odds with other currents of the Left The authors in this collection take up these questions of geographical and political peripheries Building on recent research that has emphasized the plural origins of anarchist thought and practice they reflect on the histories and cultures of the antistatist mutual aid movements of the last century beyond the boundaries of an artificially coherent Europe At the same time they reexamine the historical relationships between anarchism and communism without starting from the position of sectarian difference Marxism versus anarchism Rather they look at how anarchism and communism intersected how the insurgent Left could appear and in fact was much more ecumenical capacious and eclectic than frequently portrayed and reveal that such capaciousness is a hallmark of anarchist practice which is prefigurative in its politics and antihierarchical and antidogmatic in its ethics Copublished with the Institute for Comparative Modernities this collection includes contributions by Gavin Arnall Mohammed Bamyeh Bruno Bosteels Raymond Craib Silvia Rivera Cusicanqui Geoffroy de Laforcade Silvia Federici Steven J Hirsch Adrienne Carey Hurley Hilary Klein Peter Linebaugh Barry Maxwell David Porter
