Environmental Impact Assessment Report For Shell:

Satellite-Based Mitigation and Adaptation Scenarios for Sea Level Rise in the Lower Niger Delta Zahrah

Musa, 2018-04-17 The Niger delta with its gentle slope and low elevation is extremely sensitive to effects of climate change. Its adaptive capacity is the second lowest in terms of socio-economic development in Nigeria. Quantitative studies on developing measures for coastal planning and management in the lower Niger delta have been limited by data availability and inaccessibility of parts of the delta. The use of satellite data can help bridge the data gap by providing ancillary data imagery, elevation, altimetry, etc. that can be used to quantify the effects of SLR in the Niger delta. This thesis uses satellite data as the main source for hydrodynamic modelling and GIS analysis. Until recently, such data might not have the accuracy and precision of directly measured data. However, recent innovative approaches have enabled better exploitation of satellite data to overcome these limitations and produce adequate results to assess the impact of SLR on the Niger delta in an integrated way that will lead to practical recommendations for adaptation. Using projected global eustatic SLR values in combination with land subsidence, this thesis estimated SLR levels for the Niger delta and its effect on inundation areas and flood extent. The results indicate that the Niger delta is very vulnerable to inundation and that even minimal SLR will affect flooding in the lower Niger delta since the area continues to subside. A new coastal vulnerability index was developed in this thesis by evaluating physical, social, and human influence indicators of exposure, susceptibility, and resilience. The results show that parts of the Niger delta are highly vulnerable to SLR and need adequate mitigation/adaptation measures to protect them. It is recommended that sustainable local resilience practices already being used in parts of the Niger delta should be included in adaptation planning.

Environmental Assessment in Practice Owen Harrop, Ashley Nixon, 2005-08-05 This text explains what constitutes good practice in applying environmental assessment as an environmental management tool. A wide range of case studies and other student text features are employed to demonstrate how the different methods, techniques, and disciplines of environmental assessment can be used. The authors address the key concepts for environmental assessment procedures, methods for using EA techniques for impact prediction and evaluation, environmental risk assessment, EA consultation and participation, project management, environmental statement review, and post-project analysis and strategic environmental assessment. Worldwide case studies include gas pipelines, hydroelectric power plants, gold mining, river crossings, waste-to-energy plants, and gravel extraction in England, Scotland, Ireland, Canada, the USA, Venezuela, the Netherlands, Iceland, Zambia, Zimbabwe, South Africa, and Ghana.

Environmental Impact Assessment Alan Gilpin, 1995 This book examines the crucial role of EIA in government decision making in Europe, the Nordic countries, North America, Asia, and the Pacific.

Oil and Gas Pipeline Infrastructure Insecurity Abdul L. Abraham Jatto, 2024-05-26 This book offers a comprehensive analysis of infrastructure insecurity issues in the historic Niger Delta, drawing on empirical fieldwork involving host communities, regulators, and multinational oil and gas operators. It introduces innovative models and theories such as a pipeline life cycle model focusing on community development community neglect aggression displacement theory social aggression theory stakeholders policy development model contemporary poor governance cycle model and an infrastructure insecurity nexus model linking governance socio economic conditions and infrastructure insecurity in resource rich regions of the Global South The book bridges gaps left by previous publications providing depth and applicability of data It employs the Frustration Aggression Displacement theory to explain underlying triggers of violence and uses real world case studies diagrams and charts to facilitate understanding Suitable and engaging for individuals communities or regulators involved in oil and gas activities alike this book offers valuable insights into onshore pipeline infrastructure insecurity in Nigeria West Africa and the broader Global South addressing regulation compliance environmental concerns social aspects and technological innovations Health Impact Assessment John Kemm, Jayne Parry, Stephen Palmer, Stephen R.

Palmer, 2004-04 This book gives a comprehensive overview of the concepts theory techniques and applications of Health Impact Assessment to aid all those preparing projects or carrying out assessments It draws on examples and thinking from many different disciplines and many parts of the world This is the first easily accessible book which reviews the whole field It is likely to become the standard reference for HIA and the first place that anyone seeking to learn about the subject will turn

Handbook of Cumulative Impact Assessment Jill A.E. Blakley, Daniel M. Franks, 2021-05-28 This important Handbook is an essential guide to the state of the art concepts debates and innovative practices in the field of cumulative impact assessment It helps to strengthen the foundations of this challenging field identify key issues demanding solutions and summarize recent trends in forward progress particularly through the use of illustrative case examples The Governance Gap Penelope Simons, Audrey Macklin, 2014-07-11 This book explores the persistence of the governance gap with respect to the human rights impacting conduct of transnational extractive corporations operating in zones of weak governance The authors launch their account with a fascinating case study of Talisman Energy's experience in Sudan informed by their own experience as members of the 1999 Canadian Assessment Mission to Sudan Harker Mission Drawing on new governance reflexive law and responsive law theories the authors assess legal and other non binding governance mechanisms that have emerged since that time including the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights They conclude that such mechanisms are incapable of systematically preventing human rights violating behaviour by transnational corporations or of assuring accountability of these actors or recompense for victims of such violations The authors contend that home state regulation while not a silver bullet has a crucial role to play in regulating such conduct They pick up where UN Special Representative John Ruggie's Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights left off and propose an innovative robust and adaptable template for strengthening the regulatory framework of home states Their model draws insights from the theoretical literature leverages existing public private transnational national soft and hard regulatory tools and harnesses the specific strengths of state based governance This book will be of interest to academics policy makers students civil society and business leaders

Putting Partnerships to Work Michael Warner, Rory Sullivan, 2017-10-24 This text shares practical experiences in establishing and implementing partnerships for development between business government and civil society The focus is on the oil gas and mining industries who increasingly operate in regions characterized by poor communities and fragile environments
