Transformative Learning and Online Education: Aesthetics, Dimensions and Concepts Yuzer, T.

Volkan, Kurubacak, Gulsun, 2010-06-30 This book brings together online distance education, transformative online learning and the aesthetics concepts discussing innovation, creativity, inclusion, society, culture, mobility, usability, discourse, feminism, ecology and spirituality. Provided by publisher. Building Communication Theory Dominic A. Infante, Andrew S.

Rancer, Deanna F. Womack, 2003 The authors have organized this book to help students learn the process of theory building. In clear, engaging and comprehensible language they offer a solid foundation for understanding four perspectives on communication. Rather than presenting theories in isolation they discuss major theories within the structure of a particular approach and provide examples of the contributions each theory has made to explaining and predicting behavior. If a student develops criteria by which to judge a theory that critical framework can be applied to assess the strengths and weaknesses of any new theory. Confidence in evaluating contributions helps students appreciate and participate in the process. The connections between theorizing and practical applications stimulate interest and further exploration. The text does not attempt to be encyclopedic; rather, it offers a synthesized coherent view of theory from the social scientific perspective, emphasizing contributions from communication theorists. Learning about theory should be an enjoyable experience. Building Communication Theory creates a context for involving students in an exciting and valuable pursuit. Re-Making

Communication at Work J. Sostrin, 2013-11-07. Almost 400 years ago, philosophers John Locke and David Hume implicitly defined communication as a tool for the transmission of pure ideas, stating that the ideas themselves are what matter, not the way in which they are expressed and exchanged. Now known as the transmission model, this form of communication is still the foundation for academic courses in communication theory and practice and is embedded in most business literature and education that address subjects related to workplace communication, organization, behavior, and culture, leadership, and conflict resolution. But what if this accepted model of communication was incomplete? Re-Making Communication at Work argues that the transmission model of communication needs to be replaced by a new approach to communication. Sostrin challenges the status quo by exposing the most common myths that inaccurately define successful communication at work. These misperceptions are replaced by a set of core principles that deliver a clear mandate for re-making communication at work. Sostrin not only provides the theoretical foundation for this new approach but he uses a straightforward model and exercises that demonstrate how managers, students, and consultants can powerfully improve relationships, decision making, and collaboration with a few lines and circles. Strategic Sport Communication Paul Mark Pedersen, Pamela C.

Laucella, Edward Kian, Andrea N. Geurin, 2021. This book explores the multifaceted segment of sport communication. This text presents a standard framework that introduces readers to the many ways in which individuals, media outlets, and sport organizations work to create, disseminate, and manage messages to their constituents.
