

A close-up photograph of a Mercedes-AMG C63 V8 engine. The engine is a V8, with the two banks of cylinders visible. The central part of the engine is covered by a large, silver-colored plastic engine cover. On the front of this cover is the Mercedes-Benz three-pointed star logo. Above the cover, there's a white plastic component, possibly a part of the air intake system. Various hoses, wires, and other engine components are visible around the main cover. The background is dark, suggesting the engine is in a car's engine bay.
