

Energy Storage and Transfer Model Problems for Energy Transfer and Power

1. A capacitor stores energy when connected to a battery. When the battery is removed and the capacitor is then reconnected to the battery, the capacitor releases energy. Is this energy just a recirculation of the energy stored in the capacitor? How long would the capacitor store an amount of energy equal to what energy it has stored?

2. If all of the energy transferred to a battery and none of it is lost, the energy must be doing something. What happens when you put a battery in a circuit with a resistor? Is the energy just recirculating? What does the energy transferred to the resistor do? Is the energy just going to heat the resistor?
