

25. Given the reaction:

How will the value of the equilibrium constant K_{eq} at 550°C compare with it's value at 450°C ? K_{eq} at 550°C will have a lower value.

Explain your answer. Since the rx. is exothermic, adding heat will cause the reaction to shift LEFT. This will decrease the value of K_{eq} .

26. The following system is at equilibrium, in a closed container:

- a) How is the amount of
- N_2
- in the container affected if the volume of the container is doubled? Increased (decreasing P will cause a shift RIGHT producing more N_2)

- b) How is the rate of the forward reaction affected if more water vapor is introduced into the container?
- Increase (First inc. $[\text{H}_2\text{O}]$ will speed up rev. rx, forming more reactants. Then forward rx. will speed up.)

- c) How is the amount of
- O_2
- in the container affected if a catalyst is added?

No change (A catalyst speeds up forward & rev. rx. equally)

27. At a certain temperature,
- K_{eq}
- for the reaction:

If the equilibrium concentration of C_2H_2 is 0.40 moles/L, what is the equilibrium concentration of C_6H_6 ?

$$K_{eq} = \frac{[\text{C}_6\text{H}_6]}{[\text{C}_2\text{H}_2]^3} \rightarrow 5.0 = \frac{[\text{C}_6\text{H}_6]}{(0.40)^3} \rightarrow [\text{C}_6\text{H}_6] = (5.0)(0.40)^3 = 0.32 \text{ M}$$

Regulation of the Natural Gas Producing Industry Keith C. Brown, 2017-02-17
Originally published in 1972, Regulation of the Natural Gas Producing Industry combines several papers prepared for a seminar in Washington, D.C. in 1970. The purpose of this seminar was to exchange views between specialists on the issues related to regulation of natural gas production. As such, these papers explore issues such as producer price regulations, arguments for and against the regulation of natural gas, the changing environment of natural gas supply, and what the future holds in terms of the natural gas producing industry. This title will be of interest to students of Environmental Studies and policy makers.

Natural Gas Flaring & Energy Transition Eduardo G. Pereira, Magnus C. Abraham-Dukuma, Opeyemi Y. Omotuyi, 2025-04-23
In the context of climate change, it is generally agreed that natural gas has manifest advantages as a transition fuel that offers a potential bridge from overuse of coal and petroleum to a renewable, low-carbon future. However, the widespread ongoing practice of natural gas flaring—the burning of unwanted gas for economic reasons—is severely criticized for hampering progress in its flagrant waste of both valuable resources and revenues. This important book covers natural gas flaring policies across twenty leading oil and gas jurisdictions from a global perspective, providing the energy transition and environmental policy communities with detailed information on current developments in market regulations, contractual arrangements, and technological responses, and clarifying ways to tackle natural gas flaring in the context of meeting climate change goals. In the multifaceted approach provided by the book, contributors, experts from a broad cross-section of gas-producing countries, engage with such issues and topics as the following: the technical aspects behind natural gas flaring; alternative solutions to mitigating natural gas flaring via carbon capture, utilization, and storage; energy security imperatives; legal frameworks governing natural gas flaring; with case studies from key twenty leading oil and gas jurisdictions; best practices and potential solutions that can be adapted to different contexts; environmental, social, and governance (ESG) considerations; potential disputes arising from changing regulations and market conditions; and recommendations for design, application, and implementation of natural gas development and marketing. Bringing together legal, policy, and regulatory perspectives from natural gas hubs, this work fills a significant gap in the existing literature with a rigorous exposition and comparative analysis of the business legal economic and sustainability aspects of natural gas flaring and its role in the energy transition across global energy markets It will prove to be of immeasurable value to policymakers industry stakeholders regulators concerned nongovernmental organizations and legal practitioners in sustainable development and international relations It is sure to contribute to informed decision making and ultimately to more sustainable and equitable energy systems worldwide Economic
