

Genetics Practice Problems: Pedigree Tables

Remember the following when working pedigree tables:

- 1) Circles are females and squares are males.
- 2) A shaded circle or square indicates that a person has the trait.

The pedigree seen below is the inheritance of a trait. Shaded individuals are affected. First, determine the probable genotype of person 1 = 11. Then answer the questions below the table.

What do you know about the genotype of the mother 11?

They partner (12) had an affected son (22). He had the recessive but affected allele from his mother. Since the mother is not shaded she must be a carrier.

Number 23 is unaffected but she has a son who is affected. How did he get his allele for color blindness?

He inherited his allele for color blindness from his mother. Must have been a carrier. If unaffected, from her father.

Number numbers 25 and 26 were unaffected. How did they have a colorblind son (31)?

Both mother and father are carriers for color blindness.

What must be the genotype of the parents of a colorblind daughter? Explain.

To have a colorblind daughter, she must have the affected allele from each parent. Her father must be X^cY and mother must have X^cX or X^cY .

If number 24 has a normal son, what is the probability that their son will be colorblind?

$X^cY \times XY \rightarrow$ all of their sons will be unaffected.

(normal male)
