Heavy Metal Remediation Nitish Kumar, 2024-03-28 Heavy metals in general trace elements are one of the major environmental problems Nowadays increasing environmental and global public health concerns related with environmental contamination by heavy metals are well known Moreover human exposure has risen dramatically because of an exponential increase of their use in several activities such as agricultural industrial technological and urban applications They are presented in soils water and atmosphere and they are a serious risk for the food chain Approximately 10 million contaminated sites have been reported globally occupying approximately 49 42 million acres of land of which 50% is contaminated with toxic heavy metals This situation warrants immediate attention to limit the introduction of heavy metals into soil systems and to remove the prevailing heavy metals from polluted soils. However, the majorities of existing heavy metal removal technologies are expensive, inefficient, or generate secondary pollutants. Therefore, it is of great importance to develop cheaper, environmentally friendly, and sustainable approaches, including the development of new immobilizing agents to manage and rehabilitate heavy metal contaminated soils. In the light of the aforementioned facts, this book sheds light on this global environmental issue and proposes solutions to contamination through multi-disciplinary approaches and case studies from different parts of the world. It addresses sustainable heavy metal contamination remediation strategies using the potential applications of recent biological technology, such as biotechnology, bioremediation, phytoremediation, biochar, absorbent, genetic engineering, and nanotechnology approaches. This book is of interest to researchers, teachers, environmental scientists, environmental engineers, environmentalists, and policy makers. Also, the book serves as additional reading material for undergraduate and graduate students of environmental microbiology, biotechnology, eco-toxicology, environmental remediation, waste management, and environmental sciences, as well as the general audience.
