Abstract

It is based on the fact that a knowledge of the structure of the molecule of the polymer is not sufficient to determine its properties. The properties of the polymer are determined by the structure of the molecule of the polymer and the structure of the molecule of the polymer. The structure of the molecule of the polymer is determined by the structure of the molecule of the polymer and the structure of the molecule of the polymer. The structure of the molecule of the polymer is determined by the structure of the molecule of the polymer and the structure of the molecule of the polymer.
