Multidimensional Ranking Frans A. van Vught, Frank Ziegele, 2012-02-22 During the last decades ranking has become one of the most controversial issues in higher education and research It is widely recognized now that although some of the current rankings can be severely criticized they seem to be here to stay In addition rankings appear to have a great impact on decision makers at all levels of higher education and research systems worldwide including in universities Rankings reflect a growing international competition among universities for talent and resources at the same time they reinforce competition by their very results Yet major concerns remain as to the rankings methodological underpinnings and to their various impacts This new book presents a comprehensive overview of the current state of the art of ranking in higher education and research and introduces a completely new approach called multidimensional ranking In part 1 rankings are discussed in the broader context of quality assurance and transparency in higher education and research In addition the many current ranking methodologies are analyzed and critized and their impacts are explored In part 2 a new approach to ranking is introduced based on the basic idea that higher education and research institutions have different profiles and missions and that the performances of these institutions should reflect these differences This multidimensional approach is operationalized in a new multidimensional and user driven ranking tool called U Multirank U Multirank is the outcome of a pilot project sponsored by the European Commission in which the new ranking instrument was designed and tested at a global scale

University Rankings William Yat Wai Lo, 2014-02-17 This book adopts a qualitative case study approach to provide the readers with a systematic delineation and interpretation of the implications of the university ranking phenomenon for Taiwan s higher education system It reviews the literature on different theories concerning the global transformation of higher education and presents basic information on higher education in Taiwan The author develops a four dimensional framework for the analysis of the ranking phenomenon in the island state First the technological ecological dimension aims to look into how the rankings have impacted Taiwan s higher education based on empirical findings from five Taiwanese public universities Next the technological geographical dimension examines how Taiwan can use rankings to promote its interests in global higher education The two conceptual dimensions focus on the relationship between the rankings and power in higher education They show how the phenomenon can be read and explained through theoretical lenses from ecological and geographical perspectives From an ecological perspective the empirical evidence suggests that the influence of rankings varies throughout the academic hierarchy in Taiwan The theoretical analysis then illustrates the relationship between the ranking phenomenon and the power structure in academic hierarchy Geographically while the empirical analysis is based on data from Taiwan the theoretical analysis offers essential insights that help readers to understand the changing global landscape of higher education and its implications in East Asia

Against Creative Writing Andrew Cowan,2022-09-13
The rise of Creative Writing has been accompanied from the start by two questions can it be taught and should it be taught This scepticism is sometimes shared even by those who teach it who often find themselves split between two contradictory identities the artistic and the academic Against Creative Writing explores the difference between writing which is what writers do and Creative Writing which is the instrumentalisation of what writers do Beginning with the question of whether writing can or ought to be taught it looks in turn at the justifications for BA MA and PhD courses and concludes with the divided role of the writer who teaches It argues in favour of Creative Writing as a form of hands on literary education at undergraduate level and a form of literary apprenticeship at graduate level especially in widening access to new voices It argues against those forms of Creative Writing that lose sight of literary values as seen in the proliferation of curricular couplings with non literary subjects or the increasing emphasis on developing skills for future employment Against Creative Writing written by a writer is addressed to other writers inside or outside the academy at undergraduate or graduate level whether creative or critical

Quality in Higher Education David Andrew Turner,2012-01-01 The quality of higher education is a hot topic especially as students around the world are asked to pay more towards their own education and expect to get what they pay for In addition league tables both national and international have come to dominate discussion with several governments and many institutions setting themselves the goal of improving their ratings In this volume Professor Turner examines the assumptions that are being made about what counts as quality and what the traditional purposes of universities are But with the growth of mass higher education and the rise of student centred approaches to learning and teaching it has become increasingly clear that high quality education is education that meets the needs of the student at that particular moment and promotes their future development After examining a range of different approaches to the quality of higher education and its measurement Professor Turner develops an approach to benchmarking and quality enhancement that is better suited to the ethos of individualised learning and uses it to critique the philosophies that have dominated debates about quality to date This book will be of interest to scholars of higher education but also has something important to add to debates that engage policy makers in higher education It provides a background to the historical development of universities which might help postgraduate students and new members of faculty understand the process in which they are engaged Toutkoushian,Ulrich Teichler,2011-06-06 This ground breaking and exhaustive analysis of university ranking surveys scrutinizes their theoretical bases methodological issues societal impact and policy implications providing readers with a deep understanding of these controversial comparators The authors propose that university rankings are misused by policymakers and institutional leaders alike They assert that these interested parties overlook the highly problematic internal logic of ranking methodologies even as they obsess over the surveys assessment of their status The result is that institutions suffer from short termism realigning their resources to maximize their relative rankings While rankings are widely used in policy and academic discussions this is the first book to explore the theoretical and methodological issues of ranking itself It is a welcome contribution to an often highly charged debate Far from showing how to manipulate the system this collection of work by key researchers aims to enlighten interested parties Excellence in Teaching and Learning in Higher Education Isabel Huet,Teresa Pessoa,Fátima Sol,2021 The initial idea for the book emerged during the seminar Sharing of Innovative Pedagogical Practices that occurred at the University of Coimbra Portugal in 2018 Like all good ideas this one originated in a conversation between colleagues from the University of Coimbra and the University of West London in the United Kingdom The idea of this book was to move away from sharing experiences related to teaching and learning in higher education in just one or two countries but instead to organise a more European view about the policy research and teaching practices that are shaping the way our students learn academics teach and do research We have a total of 16 chapters from academics in Portugal the United Kingdom Ireland Sweden the Netherlands Spain Italy and the Czech Republic The book is organised in four interrelated themes 1 policy and quality 2 professionalisation of teaching and academic development 3 research and teaching nexus and 4 pedagogy and practice Enjoy reading the book The Global Academic Rankings Game Maria Yudkevich,Philip G. Altbach,Laura E. Rumbley,2016-03-02 The Global Academic Rankings Game provides a much needed perspective on how countries and universities react to academic rankings Based on a unified case methodology of eleven key countries and academic institutions this comprehensive volume provides expert analysis on this emerging phenomenon at a time when world rankings are becoming increasingly visible and influential on the international stage Each chapter provides an overview of government and national policies as well as an in depth examination of the impact that rankings have played on policy practice and academic life in Australia Chile China Germany Malaysia the Netherlands Poland Russia Turkey the United Kingdom and the United States The Global Academic Rankings Game contributes to the continuing debate about the influence of rankings in higher education and is an invaluable resource for higher education scholars and administrators as they tackle rankings in their own national and institutional contexts
