

Hold the piston rod with the end of a special strap wrench, illustrated on page 10, and disassemble the joint end. If the strap wrench slips, sprinkle a little kerosene on the belt.

NOTE: The strap wrench can be obtained through your John Deere dealer.

Piston rods have been installed at the factory with "Lentor" coating applied to prevent them from corroding liners during operation. If the rod end cannot be removed in the normal manner, apply pressure to the piston rod with the strap wrench, and heat the rod end until the end is broken.

CAUTION: Do not heat the rod end more than necessary. Excessive heat may damage the piston rod.

Removing control valve

Remove the outside sleeve of the control valve cover.

Disconnect the right lower line from the control valve, and cover the hose with tape that lines entering the system.

Remove the valve control lever by loosening the pin nut and disconnecting the lever from the handle gear.

Remove three bolts and nuts holding the control valve to the engine block, and remove the control valve.

It is recommended that you use the control valve and linkage assembly as a guide when installing the new control valve. Do not use the old control valve as a guide when installing the new one.

Disassembling control lever linkage

Remove the cap screw holding the lever joint to the joint base. Slide the clip with the pin out from under the lever and disconnect the ball joint from the lever.

Disconnect the first speed slide link and remove the handle pin and bearing. Disconnect the roll pin holding the handle slide to the joint base.

Slide pin cover is omitted. Take great care when working around machines.

Remove the cap screw holding the lever joint to the joint base. Slide the clip with the pin out from under the lever and disconnect the ball joint from the lever.

Remove the linkage assembly for the handle and lever or handle roll pin. Make sure none of the couplings have stripped threads. Remove the ball joint, making sure the clip roller stops in its proper position. Replace nuts or broken parts.

Assembling control lever linkage

Install the first speed lever between the control speed and the first speed with the stud in the lever valve connecting leg, and with a cap screw in the pin side leg. Place a lock washer and nut on the stud.

NOTE: Do not tighten the nut or cap screw at this time.
