Apartheid Vertigo David M. Matsinhe, 2016-05-23 Apartheid vertigo the dizzying sensation following prolonged oppression and delusions of skin colour is the focus of this book For centuries the colour code shaped state and national ideals created social and emotional distances between social groups permeated public and private spheres and dehumanized Africans of all nationalities in South Africa Two decades after the demise of official apartheid despite four successive black governments apartheid vertigo still distorts South Africa's postcolonial reality The colour code endures but now in postcolonial masks Political freedom notwithstanding vast sections of the black citizenry have adopted and adapted the code to fit the new reality This vertiginous reality is manifest in the neo apartheid ideology of Makwerekwere the postcolonial colour code mobilized to distinguish black outsiders from black insiders Apartheid vertigo ranges from negative sentiments to outright violence against black outsiders including insults humiliations extortions searches arrests detentions deportations tortures rapes beatings and killings Ironically the victims are not only the outsiders against whom the code is mobilized but also the insiders who mobilize it Drawing on evidence from interviews observation press articles reports research monographs and history this book unravels the synergies of history migration nationalism black group relations and violence in South Africa deconstructing the idea of visible differences between black nationals and black foreign nationals The book demonstrates that in South Africa violence always lurks on the surface of everyday life with the potential to burst through the fragile limits set upon it and possibly escalate to ethnic cleansing

Identity And The State In The Bamako Kafu B. Marie Perinbam,2018-02-23 This groundbreaking book explores the history and the cultural context of family claims to power in the Bamako kafu or state located in contemporary Mali in West Africa primarily during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries Perinbam argues that the absence of precise information on the Bamako kafu's political status during this period empowered families to manipulate the myths rituals and ancestral legends as well as belief systems so that their claims to state power appeared incontrovertible The French on reaching the region accepted these representations of power Although the author's historical data focus mainly on the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries mythical recountings beyond this historical grid ranging across approximately one thousand years and including large scale migrations throughout the West African Sahel provide insights into the processes by which many of these ethnic identities were subject to reconfiguration and reinvention Within this historical mythical matrix Perinbam offers new insights into the reconstruction of Mande identities their cultures material and otherwise political systems and various social fields as well as their past Instead of rigid ethnic identities sometimes identified in the historical and anthropological literature as Mandingo Malinke or Bambara the author argues that variable ethnographic identities were more often than not mediated in accordance with a number of mythic and historical contingencies most notably the respective states into which the families were drawn as well as state formation maintenance and renewal not to mention meaning sensitive to political generational and gender challenges With the arrival of the French in the late nineteenth century and the Mande incorporation into the French colonial state familial identities once more readjusted The careful research and original scholarship of Family Identity and the State in the Bamako Kafu make it a significant contribution to the histories of West Africa the African Diaspora and the United States The African Middle Class, Cape Liberalism and Resistance to Residential Segregation at Port Elizabeth, South Africa, 1880-1910 Joyce F. Kirk,1987 Read, Reason, Write - book alone Dorothy Seyler,2006-11-29 This comprehensive text presents clear instruction on critical reading and analysis argument and research techniques along with a collection of current incisive readings appropriate for practicing those techniques New features of the eighth edition include an expanded visual program featuring new chapter opening visuals and two full color inserts and a newly revised and updated reader Voices from the Continent Sara Talis O'Brien,Renée Schattelman,2005 This curriculum guide provides anthropological and historical research as well as literary criticism on six narratives from Southern Africa The background and critical materials are integrated into well developed lesson plans which include handouts This is a useful guide for college professors and teachers of English and social studies at secondary school level The lessons contained in this guide may also be used in whole or in part and can be integrated into larger units on world literature cultural diversity psychology sociology and women s studies
