Television Everywhere Andrei Jeziarski, 2010 Television Everywhere is on the way It's a generic term for using the internet to get TV to more devices in more places more conveniently what you want where you want when you want it It's far from a new idea Plenty of futuristic notions of TV have been promoted in the past usually by technologists with a shaky understanding of the television business But this time Hollywood's content ownership combined with new simple technologies could enable the television industry itself to take the lead and modernize television while extending its economic life well into the future More important than delivering TV through the internet is using the internet to retain and expand audiences for the TV we already have That's what this book is about why it's a problem worth solving how to go about solving it and how today's television industry will benefit from stepping in where cable companies phone companies and their technology suppliers are failing miserably Aimed primarily at Hollywood this book is for studio network and channel executives producers show runners ad agency strategists digital or otherwise media buyers and executives at ratings measurement companies We describe how Hollywood can both extend the life of so called linear television and control the transition to internet delivered TV while building upon existing starter digital assets such as Hulu or channel and program specific web properties and applications Finally this book is also a wake up call to internet content and technology companies to take a fresh look at an old problem using a comparatively new low cost set of approaches produced by the Web 2.0 and cloud computing waves which emerged over the last several years
