BBC Wildlife, 2008 The Chimpanzees of Rubondo Island Josephine Nadezda Msindai, Volker Sommer, 2022-10-05

How did a random batch of chimpanzees come to populate a small island in Tanzania where apes had never lived before Combining information gathered from fieldwork laboratory and archival research this book tells the unique story of chimpanzee babies taken from their forest homes in West Central Africa and sold to European zoos and circuses to then be shipped to Lake Victoria and set free on Rubondo Island These founder animals learnt what to eat how to build nests to breed and raise young ultimately forming a chimpanzee typical fission fusion society that today is thriving The authors compare the ecology behaviour and genetics of the Rubondo population with communities of wild chimpanzees providing exciting insights into how our closest relatives adjust to changing environments At the same time a reconstruction of the historical context of the Rubondo experiment reflects on its chequered colonial heritage and the introduction is viewed against current threats to the survival of apes in their natural habitats The book will be of interest to scholars and professionals working in primatology animal behaviour conservation biology and postcolonial studies Altered Ecologies Simon Haberle, Janelle human cultures in the Australia Pacific region arguably the globe's premier model systems for understanding the consequences of humans' colonization on ecological systems. The distinguished scholars who have contributed to this volume also demonstrate Hope's enduring contribution as an inspirational research leader, collaborator, and mentor. Terra Australis leave no doubt that history matters not only for land management but more importantly in alerting settler and indigenous societies alike to their past ecological impacts and future environmental trajectories. GEO - Informatics Assistant (Practical) Mr. Rohit Manglik, 2024-05-18.
