The Abu Bakr Cemetery at Giza Edward Brovarski, Tohfa Handoussa, 2021-07-31 The present volume reflects the work of the joint expedition of Cairo University and Brown University to record and publish the tombs uncovered on behalf of Cairo University by Prof Abdel Moneim Abu Bakr from 1949 through 1953 but never published The loss of field records and lack of a map of the site meant that new salvage excavation had to be undertaken A total of six seasons from 2000-2006 resulted in the clearing remapping and recording of the monuments in the cemetery Abu Bakr Cemetery is of particular interest because the majority of mastaba tombs belong to relatively low ranking individuals Thus they have the potential to shed light on the social status of Egypt's working classes A Research Guide to the Ancient World John M. The Archaeology of Cremation

Tim Thompson,2015-03-31 Human societies have disposed of their dead in a variety of ways However while considerable attention has been paid to bodies that were buried comparatively little work has been devoted to understanding the nature of cremated remains despite their visibility through time It has been argued that this is the result of decades of misunderstanding regarding the potential information that this material holds combined with properties that make burned bone inherently difficult to analyse As such there is a considerable body of knowledge on the concepts and practices of inhumation yet our understanding of cremation ritual and practice is by comparison woefully inadequate This timely volume therefore draws together the inventive methodology that has been developed for this material and combines it with a fuller interpretation of the archaeological funerary context It demonstrates how an innovative methodology when applied to a challenging material can produce new and exciting interpretations of archaeological sites and funerary contexts The reader is introduced to the nature of burned human remains and the destructive effect that fire can have on the body Subsequent chapters describe important cremation practices and sites from around the world and from the Neolithic period to the modern day By emphasising the need for a robust methodology combined with a nuanced interpretation it is possible to begin to appreciate the significance and wide spread adoption of this practice of dealing with the dead Biomedical
