Human Body Organs

Kidneys

Kidneys are the body's natural filters. They regulate the balance of fluids and waste in the body. They are located in the back of the body, one on each side of the spine. They filter out waste from the blood and send it out of the body. They also help to regulate blood pressure and the production of red blood cells.

Stomach

Stomach is a muscular organ that is part of the digestive system. It is located in the upper abdomen. It is responsible for breaking down food into smaller pieces that can be absorbed by the body. It also produces stomach acid, which helps to break down food.

Small Intestine

Small intestine is a long, coiled tube that is part of the digestive system. It is located in the lower abdomen. It is responsible for absorbing nutrients from the food that has been broken down in the stomach. It also produces enzymes that help to break down food.

Large Intestine

Large intestine is a long, coiled tube that is part of the digestive system. It is located in the lower abdomen. It is responsible for absorbing water and electrolytes from the food that has been broken down in the small intestine. It also produces mucus, which helps to lubricate the passage of stool.

Heart

Hear is a muscular organ that is part of the circulatory system. It is located in the center of the chest. It is responsible for pumping blood throughout the body. It has four chambers: two atria and two ventricles. The right side of the heart pumps blood to the lungs, and the left side pumps blood to the rest of the body.

Liver

Liver is a large, reddish-brown organ that is part of the digestive system. It is located in the upper right abdomen. It is responsible for producing bile, which helps to break down fat in the small intestine. It also stores glycogen, which is a form of sugar that can be used for energy. The liver also filters out toxins from the blood.

Lungs

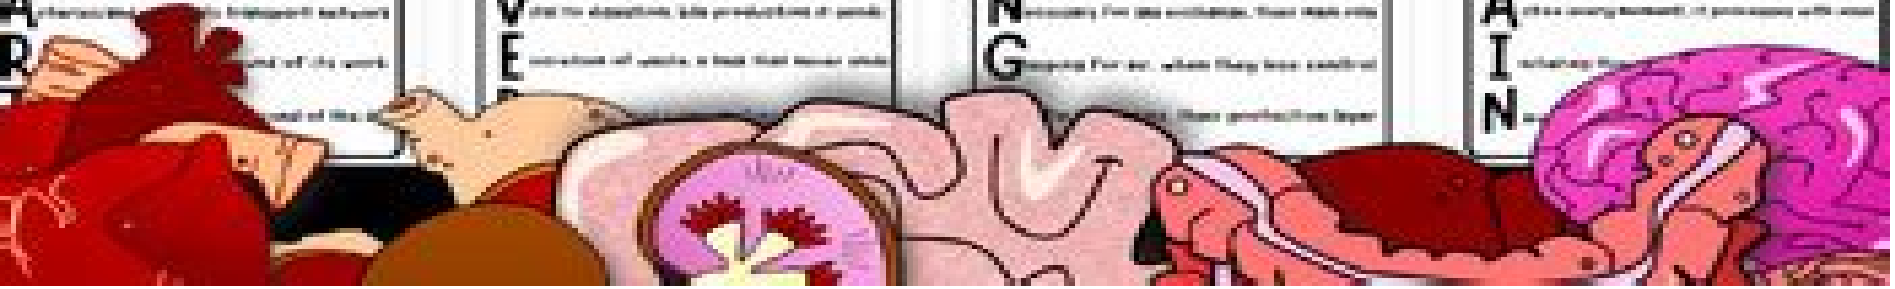

Lungs are two large, spongy organs that are part of the respiratory system. They are located in the chest cavity, one on each side of the heart. They are responsible for taking in oxygen from the air and expelling carbon dioxide. The lungs are covered in a thin layer of moist tissue called the pleura, which helps to reduce friction as the lungs expand and contract.

Brain

Brain is a soft, pinkish-grey organ that is part of the nervous system. It is located in the head, protected by the skull and meninges. It is responsible for controlling all of the body's functions, from movement to thought. The brain is made up of billions of neurons, which are the basic units of the nervous system. It also produces hormones, which help to regulate the body's internal processes.

Working Blessedly Forever, Volume 1 R. Paul Stevens, 2024-02-20 Work whether from home in cyberspace or in a factory or office occupies a major chunk of our time energy and soul This book seeks to make sense of our work in the world through adapting the pithy statement of the Puritan William Perkins to define marketplace theology as the science of working blessedly forever It is a science involving investigation but not just with the head thought but also with heart prayer and hand practice But it is a science of working So the book investigates a theology of work undertaken in the light of God's blessing and purpose And our work is not just for this life but forever since some of it could last into the new heaven and new earth where guess what Scripture says we will work as fully human and resurrected beings Stevens gathers his lifetime of research and teaching into this book showing through biblical research and contemporary analysis the meaning of work and human enterprise It could change your lifestyle your work style and your soul
