Cognition in the Wild Edwin Hutchins, 1996-08-26 Edwin Hutchins combines his background as an anthropologist and an open ocean racing sailor and navigator in this account of how anthropological methods can be combined with cognitive theory to produce a new reading of cognitive science His theoretical insights are grounded in an extended analysis of ship navigation its computational basis its historical roots its social organization and the details of its implementation in actual practice aboard large ships The result is an unusual interdisciplinary approach to cognition in culturally constituted activities outside the laboratory in the wild Hutchins examines a set of phenomena that have fallen in the cracks between the established disciplines of psychology and anthropology bringing to light a new set of relationships between culture and cognition The standard view is that culture affects the cognition of individuals Hutchins argues instead that cultural activity systems have cognitive properties of their own that are different from the cognitive properties of the individuals who participate in them Each action for bringing a large naval vessel into port for example is informed by culture the navigation team can be seen as a cognitive and computational system Introducing Navy life and work on the bridge Hutchins makes a clear distinction between the cognitive properties of an individual and the cognitive properties of a system In striking contrast to the usual laboratory tasks of research in cognitive science he applies the principal metaphor of cognitive science cognition as computation adopting David Marr's paradigm to the navigation task After comparing modern Western navigation with the method practiced in Micronesia Hutchins explores the computational and cognitive properties of systems that are larger than an individual He then turns to an analysis of learning or change in the organization of cognitive systems at several scales Hutchins's conclusion illustrates the costs of ignoring the cultural nature of cognition pointing to the ways in which contemporary cognitive science can be transformed by new meanings and interpretations A Bradford Book

Golden Thread of Time Crichton E.M Miller, 2014-04-10

Time is the most important commodity on Earth we live by it and we die by it it gives order to our lives and we control all of our modern society using time and its modern instruments We think we have mastered time what if we are wrong We are told in the Bible in Genesis 1 verse 14 that our ancestors measured time by the stars and moon and we are told by evolutionists that ancient people used basic astronomy to achieve a crude understanding of time What if the war between science and religion has psychologically obscured an obvious and indisputable fact from us all If our ancestors could measure time accurately then all our science and technical achievements would have been inherited in a tree of knowledge that brought us to where we are today What if the Church in its desperate struggle to keep a profitable business alive and functioning has created such division over the ages that we do not understand the simple messages left by our ancestors on the real nature of time What if both church and crown in their pact to rule Europe obscured a scientific system inherited from Palaeolithic and Neolithic sea faring hunter gatherers that was used for thousands of years to keep time while measuring and travelling the planet and developing a philosophy that maintained a balance with Nature There is a golden thread of truth running through our history that millions cannot see but that if we did it may give us hope for our children in a world adrift without an anchor where time runs faster exploitation is rife and honesty is a bye word from a lost time imagined to be better where society cared about its people and families about their children living by rules that were easy to understand and no one old poor or disabled lived in isolation The Golden Thread of Time is designed to give hope where it does not exist providing answers where there have been none while motivating people to look beyond the mundane toward the light Do you care

Maloney,2020-07-01 King of the Cold War crisis film Dr Strangelove became a cultural touchstone from the moment of its release in 1964 The duck and cover generation saw it as a satire on nuclear issues and Cold War thinking Subsequent generations removed from the film s historical moment came to view it as a quasi documentary about an unfathomable secret world Sean M Maloney uses Dr Strangelove and other genre classics like Fail Safe and The Bedford Incident to investigate a curious pop cultural contradiction Nuclear crisis films repeatedly portrayed the failures of the Cold War's deterrent system Yet the system worked What does this inconsistency tell us about the genre What does it tell us about the deterrent system for that matter Blending film analysis with Cold War history Maloney looks at how the celluloid crises stack up against reality or at least as much of reality as we can reconstruct from these films with confidence The result is a daring intellectual foray that casts new light on Dr Strangelove one of the Cold War era's defining films
